Jeshua Speaks about: OUR FATHER

JUNE 2019

Beloved one, when I gave forth what is now known as The Lord's Prayer, it was to be an example, a framework upon which you would weave your own prayer. I began it with Our Father; for it was in the day and time when the father was understood to be the head of the household. Now, at the point in time and understanding where you see yourself to be, it could well be Our Mother; Divine Creator; Source of All. And because there is an understood intimacy, familiarity, in speaking to one's father, I chose that wording as an example. "Our Father, from whom we have come and in Whose likeness we have been created."

Our Father: Not just my Father. Our Father, universal. For every prayer, to be true, must go beyond the singular, where there would be seen to be separateness, to go to the place of acknowledging and remembering Oneness of all.

Our Father, which art in Heaven: Heaven, a realm of Oneness of holiness, of expansion beyond the specificity of individuality, of personality, lifetime, of any mental concept. Heaven, infinite and ever-expanding Totality.

Hallowed be Thy name: Holy, whole, perfect, complete. Holy is Thy nature. Perfection, completeness, Allness is Your essence. That is the nature of the One Who has brought you forth—and it is your nature by divine birthright.

Thy kingdom come: The kingdom of Love, unlimited, unconditional love which sees everyone as the beautiful radiant Child. Thy kingdom come. Not as a plea, for you are not plea-bargaining with your Father. "Thy kingdom is come," as Thy will be done, in Earth as it is in Heaven. For indeed, the Kingdom is come on Earth as it is in Heaven when you remember the Father's will is only Love—pure, expansive, unconditional Love—wherever you see yourself to be.

Give us this day our daily bread: Again, not said as a plea, but as a statement of truth. "You supply for us in every day our daily bread." Bread for the body, but more than that, the bread of understanding, the food, nourishment of the soul. "Give us our daily bread"—momently, daily. Not just once, and if you happen to be out in left field you have missed it. Daily, on-going.

And allow us to drink from the water of Life: That line is not recorded in your Scriptures, for one of you, in

30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION: A SPECIAL REUNION

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the founding of Oakbridge University. In March of 1989 eight forward-thinking souls came together, wrote the Articles of Incorporation for the University and petitioned the Internal Revenue Service for exemption from federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) as a non-profit corporation organized exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational purposes.

At the first meeting of the Incorporators, Eva McGinnis was elected Vice President of the newly formed University, (by the next year Eva became President), and Judith Coates was named Executive Director of the Corporation to oversee the day-to-day operation of the University. Other Incorporators included Thomas Coates, Janice Huseland, Herbert Huseland, Bette McBrier, MarySue Phillips and John Veatch.

On Wednesday evening, July 17th of this year, at the Summer Advance we will be having a special anniversary celebration highlighting the past history, classes, activities, Advances (and where they were held) of the University. Past students have been invited to speak of their recollections of the earlier days.

copying the ancient writings, missed that line. It was at the end of your shift and you left, and when you came back the next day you picked up at the next line.

And allow us to drink from the water of Life: the nourishing, refreshing water as it nourishes the body and the soul.

Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors: Your Father forgives you any momentary lapse of remembrance, for He does not know lapse of remembrance. Your Father is Love. You are Love, and as you give love in forgiveness—for that is truly what forgiveness means: to give love for, in place of, limited understanding—as you forgive others what you have judged as their momentary misunderstanding, you allow yourself to abide in the space of unconditional, unlimited Love, and you know forgiveness yourself.

It is not an exchange. It is not that if you are good enough to forgive all of the ones you have judged to have made mistakes, that somehow then you will be good enough that your Father will forgive you. It is not an exchange. It is a truth: that as you are abiding in judgment, not forgiving another one, you are not knowing love yourself. But as you forgive others and extend to them the Love of the Father, you know that Love for yourself, and instantly anything that you have judged yourself to be lacking or at fault for is released, dissolved, forgotten, gone forever.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: Your Father would never lead you into temptation; He does not know temptation, for that rests upon the concept of duality. A better rendering would be, “leave us not in temptation,” for truly, when you turn the focus of your attention unto the Father, all duality dissolves in the Light of His Oneness, His Love, and you are delivered from the possibility that there might be such an idea as the concept of evil. “And You leave us not in temptation, but deliver us from the concept of separation as our awareness of Your Love envelops us.”

Whenever you pray, go first unto the place of the heart, to the place of peace, having released, at least momentarily, all of the concerns, the constrictions, the judgments of the world. Go first to the place of the heart and know the deep abiding peace which is yours for the asking.

And when you pray, pray believing that what you would ask for is already yours, for verily, it is. There is nothing that your Father would withhold from you. There is nothing that your Father can withhold from you. As the holy creative Child, you have brought forth all of your creations and your experiences. You select certain experiences; you try them on for size to see how they fit. But the Love which you seek is always yours. The Love which you seek can be found within the silence of the prayer of your heart.

When you tire of the pain and the hurt of the world, turn then to the place of the heart and pray the breath of the soul. Pray to the one Father Who will never, can never, abandon you; Who is there, in Truth, to supply your every need. It is yours for the asking.

Now, there are times when you would pray, in limited thinking, for specifics, and you would ask of your Father what He does not have in specific to give you. In other words, do not pray to your Father for the vehicle, for the dwelling place, for He does not have that in specific to give to you. They are creations within your Adventure. But that which He has is yours already. That which He has is beyond the value of the world. That which he has is freely given, and it is the pearl of great price.

He gives you freely of Life, of consciousness, of creativity, which is your natural birthright. Then you take the consciousness and the creativity and apply it to the specific which you would see in your life. Pray believing that you already have, for indeed you do.

If you would know the beauty of the clouds, do not keep the head and eyes cast down. If you would know the Love of the Father, allow yourself the moments of prayer, where He is to be found. If you would know the Love of your Father, allow yourself time, your precious time, to focus upon the peace, the beauty in the heart and the beauty in manifest form rather than focusing upon what seemingly is lacking or wrong. For as you keep your focus upon what is seemingly wrong, you deny in that moment the desire of the heart.

Allow yourself the times of prayer, of true prayer. And when you do, beloved one, you will be greatly rewarded. For you are loved with an everlasting Love which the world cannot know and does not value. But you are not of the world. You are of your Father, and He awaits you in the place of true prayer.

JESHUA Q&A

BACKSTABBING IN THE WORKPLACE

I don't want it to sound very egotistical, but there's a lot of backstabbing going on right now at work (Oh, yes) Why is there so much jealousy out there?

It comes from that feeling of insecurity. It is fear-based, and it says, "I have been taught, I have heard the whispers around the edges that I'm not good enough, that I should work harder, I should look prettier, I should..." all of the shoulds. They have tried a lot of the shoulds, and that doesn't make them more successful, so they try harder. But it is fear-based, and what is most necessary is for them to stop, to breathe, to take stock of the fact that they are good enough; otherwise, they would not be; they would not be here. So however you can put that forward for ones, they may hear it, they probably won't hear it, but that is underlying what is happening. They feel—and it is false, as you have seen—that if they put another one down, then that raises them up, but it does not. They still feel bad about themselves, so they turn around and find someone else that they can try to bring down.

IS THE MOON HOLLOW?

Two of the astronauts on a recent trip to the moon—when one of the components dropped to the moon—detected a vibration for three hours, increasing vibration, so it was indicative that the moon was hollow (Yes) So I wondered what you thought about that.

Well, beloved brother, I try not to think (Laughter) I try to Be. Yes, there is quite a history to your moon, and you have come away from the program that you saw with more questions than answers. You have come away wondering, “How did it get to be the exact size that it is? Is it really hollow? What is happening on the other side that is never turned toward the Earth?”

All of these questions have been running around in your mind. In truth, do you want the answer? (Yes) Ah, okay. Yes, in truth, it is hollow. Yes, it was made to the exact dimensions that ones designed. “Which ones,” you say, “which ones?” You, as you would now call yourself an extra...ha, are you an extra in this play? Yes, I suppose you are. Extraterrestrial. You, as the Intelligence that you are, you designed and then put it in the recesses of memory, this object to shine upon you in the evening when the daytime light has gone to bed, so to speak. Anyway, so that you have the moon reflecting the sunlight. It has been by design. Play with that for a while. So, yes, the moon is not made of green cheese, but it is hollow, and it was designed by an Intelligence that you are not separate from, and you are now coming—you and a group of ones who are the enquiring minds...you have a saying, “Enquiring minds want to know” how this came to be. Why did this come to be? What is the purpose? And you have had all kinds of stories about the moon. It has been fascinating down through the ages, and it will continue to be fascinating for a while, until the purpose has been fulfilled.

UPCOMING TRIP TO MARS

What do you think about the trip to Mars?

It's fun. Hopefully, the ones who will be doing it will be sending back pictures so that you can participate in knowing what it might feel like if you were onboard and landing and looking for the first time to what would seem to be a new world, a new environment. What is happening now is most wondrous, because the human mind is allowing the shutters of the mind, the shutters that have been so closed, to be thrown open, sort of like the blinders on a horse, as it used to be, being opened up and to say, “Oh, what is out there? What is there? How did that come to be? Why did that come to be?”

So you are living at a time where you are getting information, enough to make question marks, and you are putting the period to it and saying, “I want to know.” So seemingly through an extension of what you see yourself to be; in other words, another human being or a group of human beings are putting together the technology that can go and see with the mechanical eyes what you would see if you were actually taking the body. Now, in time, you are going to be taking the body to these other locations. But meantime, in the history it seems to be a beginning time. Actually, it is a remembrance time, because you have lived within some of these planetary bodies in other constellations as well. That is how infinite you are—you as the One, the divine Self, the creative Principle, the creative One, out of which everything comes and will continue to come as long as you ask for it to be. And when you get tired of one topic, you will choose another one. But, yes, it is going to be most instructive and interesting to you. (Thank you)

NATIVE AMERICAN VISITOR

I had a vision, I do believe it was a vision of a Native American standing next to my bed, and I'm asking, what does he want? And at the same time I saw a lot of Indians coming down. Do I now know the answer, that they are coming down to help us? Instead of keeping the secrets that they have been keeping, they are now going to open up?

Yes. (So that's what I saw?) Yes, that is what you saw, and now you probably have the question, “Why me?” It is because you have background in the thinking and the lifetimes of the Native Americans as well. It has been put far into the recesses of your memory, so it has not been at the top of your memory, but it is coming more, because it is very much in alignment with where you are in your thinking as to the shaman. And it is not strange. It is not strange, far-off. It is very much in alignment. So allow yourself to be open, which you are, and to say, “Okay, speak to me. Speak through me,” because that is the next step that is going to be happening if you allow

it. (I thought so) You thought so (Yes, I did)

I felt that I actually saw him. It wasn't a dream. I felt that when I sat up, that I looked right at him with that flesh on. What was that?

Yes, it was flesh; made flesh for you so that you would believe. You see, miracles still happen. They are not just something in the past. Miracles happen every day.

Okay, and the next question is, just like I had the words, "It is finished," I also had...I can't pronounce it really...Melchizedek. That word is just in my spirit, so what is that about?

That is for you to research.

I did. What I came up with, which I've known for a while, he was the person who accepted tithes from the kings (Right) and I thought maybe from you too (Yes) You didn't give tithes, though, did you?

Not a tithe in the money sense. Tithes as a portion of the truth that is being shared—that kind of tithe.

Okay. So why did he come to me?

Well, first of all, why not? Second of all, it came to you because it is something that is near and dear to your heart, to give back a portion of yourself, whatever that might be, to the Source of your Being.

Oh, wow.

You see, the inner soul of you, the inner Self of you is far wiser than the outer self. The outer self is the one that comes forward with all of the questions and says, "Who, why, when, etc.?" But the inner Self of you is nudging, is saying to you, "You know these answers. You know the message of the heart," and your brothers and sisters are calling out for you to speak words of comfort, words of wisdom to them, words of encouragement. That is truly what we were speaking of this evening regarding the changes that you see happening, There will be many who will be coming to you, and they will have very deep-seated questions that they are struggling with. And you, because you are open to the history of yourSelf—capital "S"—you will be able to go deep within and find the answer that then allows them to smile, to feel healed again.

Okay; yes, I got that.

Good; I knew you would. Thank you, beloved one.

MALDEK

It's interesting that you brought up Maldek, the world I assume many of us lived on before. When we populated the Earth, did we come together again as the one consciousness onto this planet?

Yes. Many of the grouping that was on Maldek have come to holy Mother Earth and have a certain feeling of needing to take care of this planet. Now, there are other seed ones who are here on holy Mother Earth who did not have the experience of Maldek, and they are the ones who are being most creative of thinking, "Well, you know, I can say...etc. and it will be okay." So then the ones of you who have experience having the planet truly explode into pieces, you have said, "Wait a second, let's put the brakes on. We don't really want to go there. We've been there, done that, don't need to repeat it." So you are as...I will not say older brothers and sisters, because there is no age differential. The ones who have not had the experience on Maldek are the ones who had other experiences that perhaps you haven't had, so they can speak to other topics, other adventures.

Did anybody get off the planet Maldek physically before it exploded? Was there space travel at that time?

Yes, there were ones who knew this was coming and made preparation and were in space, although they felt the wave of the energy when all of this happened, because truly all of the planets that are circling your star felt the great explosion of energy, and some were thrown off of their previous course. So there has been a bit of the depiction...you have pictures in caves of certain what has been called scientific or reckoning of history, perhaps, where there have been the drawings. Because of space travel, ones knew the various holy bodies that were circling your star, and there have been some of the cave drawings showing what was remembered in the psyche of a group of certain ones. Your scientists come along now and read this, and they say that that is out of place. Well, yes, it was thrown out of place.

I've read that the moon at one point was part of the Earth and was thrown off the Earth; I mean, separation happened. Was that part of what happened at this time?

That is how some of the other planets, as you call them, have more moons circling. They are pieces that were forced out.

So when we came to this planet, we communicated mind to mind, not necessarily by words (Right) So was that the initial language that is often described in the Bible about one point when everybody on Earth spoke the same language?

Yes, and then there was the sound that came forth and became as babel, as it is called, that developed with all the different languages and dialects. So the Tower of Babel, was that a communication tower with ET's? (Yes) But it was destroyed by those ET's? They didn't want us all speaking the same language? I mean, in that story, God, or the gods seemed very judgmental about, well, we don't want you to be as good as we are, or as I am, so they destroyed this communication center, and people scatter and have different languages. And it seems to me that that might even be the origin of our miscommunications and the basis for wars in the future.

Yes, and it is. The non-understanding of One. It was not destroyed by outer circumstance. It was destroyed because of the invention, if you want to call it that, of sound language and ones feeling that as they traveled a distance away, in time—you have noticed this as well—the language would take on a different nuance of some sort. Sound would change a bit, and that is what happened. It was a gradual evolution. It was not something that was done all of a sudden with forethought. It was something that evolved.

So if we were so good at being able to read each other's minds, why did we need a language?

Creativity (We just wanted to try it) Yes. And an idea. And when once an idea comes and lands in the mind, it has to be out-pictured at some point, at some time. So the idea came, "What can we do with sound? What does it mean?"

Well, it can be beautiful like the music, or it can be used to hurt someone (Exactly) So part of our healing and our sense of Oneness is to come back to being able to communicate mind to mind, heart to heart, where we actually feel it and live it, so we don't feel the separation that then brings all this other chaos (Right; you've got it) Okay, I'm communicating with you heart to heart (Yes, you are)

THE PRIME DIRECTIVE

Interesting discussion about the Prime Directive (Yes) Do no harm; that's the first part of it (Exactly) Because last time I had the message at the Unity Church, when I was trying to tune in and figure out what I was meant to say, the Prime Directive was what came up for me, and that's what I talked about. And I thought I heard you say that the Prime Directive for our planet is evolving, that the very first...going back in history when I researched this, the part about "Do unto others as you would have done to you," the Golden Rule was the first. And you came and elevated that to "Love one another" (Right) So is that the evolving of our Prime Directive on this planet? (Yes) From "Do No Harm", to "Love" (Yes) and that's where we're heading.

Yes, you're very much in the stream of that evolution, as you call it.

FORGIVENESS

Is forgiveness truly just a matter of realizing that there is nothing to forgive and that we are all One?

Yes, that is the basis for it. But the true clue to remember what forgiveness is, is to remember to give love for.
