MARY'S STORY: DECEMBER 12, 1994

The following is an excerpt from the soon-to-be-published second edition of The Christmas Story: Remembrance, a small paperback book by Jeshua, through Judith, telling of the first Christmas, available from Oakbridge University Press on Amazon, $9.95. (Also available on the website www.oakbridgeuniversity.org.

...At the time of the birth there was again such a feeling of exultation. I felt it for it was my belief that this was the birth of the messiah: the messiah who had long been awaited, who had been prophesied, who would be the savior of all of the ones expressing upon this plane. It was a grand event and I, in my belief, saw the messiah as this one grander than any other expression upon this plane. There was a feeling of great joy. There was a feeling of accelerated vibration and energy that was felt even in the very heavens. The angels, yes, did sing. They always sing.

Every time you allow yourself to be in joy, in exultation, in exhilaration, in that place of unlimited "yes" affirmative, the angels sing. They are your cheering section. There was heavenly music. There was a vibration which could be heard even with the physical ears—a sound of music, a vibration, and it was heard by many who were simple of heart, simple of belief, who were not caught up into the complexities of the world.

The shepherds heard the angels. They heard the heavenly music, and there was a great star. There was a great Light which went forth from us as the Light that we are, and it was joined by the Lights of the angels in what you would call heaven, in the heavens.

There was a conjunction of planets that had been prophesied and studied by the learned ones, a great star, a great light which was seen by all in that country miles about, for it was huge. It was a conjunction, and even more than that, there were beings from what you would see as other dimensions who came to witness the event; ones who came in what you would call now your spaceships of other dimensions; many who allowed their vibration of Light to be seen by those who were focusing their attention upon it—those who had the eyes to see. It has been recorded, and it has been interpreted down through the ages according to various beliefs.

The wisemen came; three came first. They were astrologers who studied the heavens. They knew the movements of the planets and the stars in the heavens, and they knew that the best place for viewing the conjunction was to be in Bethlehem. They had projected this by their mathematical formulas, so they arrived in Bethlehem to make their calculations. They were up on the rooftops every evening recording, making their calculations, watching the heavenly bodies.

THE NEW CHRISTMAS STORY: REMEMBRANCE

Many years ago (although it was still within this lifetime, 1993-4) at Christmas time The Holy Family wanted to tell their stories about the birth of the Messiah. Jeshua and Joseph shared with us their stories at Christmastime 1993, and Mary told her story in December 1994. Their stories are now published together in the second edition of The Christmas Story: Remembrance, printed this month and available through Amazon and on the Oakbridge University website.

The recording of Mary's channeling on December 12, 1994, was found by Bill Evans on an archived recording, and he later found the transcription of that evening, typed by Tom Coates. Many heartfelt thanks to Bill for his tireless hours working on the second edition of this important little book. Thank you!

The over-arching message of The Christmas Story: Remembrance is that it is our story, our birthing, our awakening to the Christ Presence that we are. It is a happy drama, full of colorful actors (and you know who they are)!

This year celebrate the birth of the Christ you are. Take some time on Christmas morning to welcome the Christ into the world, your world. Happy Birthday, Christ!

They were joined by two other wise-men, one who had come from Persia and one who had come from Indus—India as you know it now—who also had known in their heart that there was to be a grand birth upon this plane; ones who had studied their ancient writings who were of the Brotherhood of the Essenes. For the Essenes were not just at Mount Carmel. They were not just in the villages around Mount Carmel, but the Brotherhood was spread afar throughout all of the known lands at that time, and there was a networking that kept each one abreast of what was happening in the various countries and the ancient writings and the wisdom. Part of my job at Mt. Carmel had been to copy various writings, and these copies were sent abroad. But I was not the first to copy, for this had been done many, many generations before that lifetime.

So the ancient writings were studied by the Brotherhood, wherever you would see them to be. So one came from India, one came from Persia, and three came from the surrounding area near Galilee, near Bethlehem, Judea. Those three are the ones who went unto Herod and asked where they could find the newborn king. This was part of a plan.

The three wisemen did not come on the first evening. Some of your recording has been telescoped into a timeline that is closer together than what it was. The shepherds, yes, they made trek. They came to visit, depending on how far the journey was that they had to make. But the wisemen waited.

After the birth of Jeshua, we took care of business, the census that had to be done. Joseph did, and we were free then to return unto Nazareth. But it was also thought that it would be wise to stay low profile, I believe you would call it now, and to stay in the cave behind the inn while the others took their leave and went on home.

So I stayed the forty days that was seen as part of our custom, and Jeshua spent his first forty days with the sheep and two oxen and a donkey, an old cow and her calf, and there was much of harmony and much of Love that was shared.

On the eighth day he was circumcised according to our ritual and offered unto the Lord as was part of our ceremony, and the word went out to all of the Essene Brotherhood that the messiah had been born and that he was one Jeshua ben Joseph. It was whispered from ear to ear across the land: Jeshua, son of Joseph.

Towards the end of the forty days the wisemen came to visit. They also were steeped in a belief that the messiah was God—their belief of what God is upon this plane. At first when they came unto the cave, even though they had been told what the cave was like, they were surprised at the simplicity. They were surprised at Joseph's appearance and my appearance, for we looked like simple, humble Jewish peasants.

They had their own image of what they expected. But we invited them in to sit at table. I poured wine for them and had food, sweetmeats for them, and I poured myself a glass of wine and sat at table with them, which at first surprised them, for they thought a woman was to serve, to be seen but not to take part. Then they remembered that this was an Essene household where woman is equal.

So after they got over their initial adjustment to that, we went on with the conversation. Joseph and I had studied astrology; not to the depth of the wisemen, but we had studied enough to be conversant, so we talked of astrology, of the bodies in the heavens, of the great star, the conjunction of the planets. We talked of numerology. We talked of prophecy, and there was much that we shared in equality; much of friendship. Then Jeshua woke up and called out for attention, and I went to him. I took care of his needs and then brought him to the wisemen so they could see him, for indeed that is why they came, and they did want to see him.

Again, initially because of their belief, their expectancy, they fell down upon their knees in reverence and in awe of what they expected to see and what they did see because of that expectancy. There was seen a great Light around me and around Jeshua as I held him, for they had the belief and the willingness to see the Light that will be most apparent upon this plane in the days to come.

In that moment they beheld the Light which activates the body. They beheld my Light and the Light of Jeshua, and it was a most sacred moment, a moment of awe, for in beholding the Light of the small babe, they beheld their own Light, and again the angels sang.

There was a momentary breaking through the veil of the belief of the world: it was that momentary revelation of Oneness. Then they looked again and it was a simple Jewish woman with a baby in her arms. And I said to them, "Look, he is a babe just as any other babe; beautiful. Do you want to hold him?"

They had gifts that they had brought for the new king. The one from India brought resin from a tree, a resin known as myrrh, a very sacred resin. It was a gift fit for a king, for indeed they were honoring the newborn king. The wiseman from Persia presented him with frankincense. It is also a resin from a tree, a tree which grows in Persia, an incense that is symbolic. It joins this plane symbolically with heaven. Again, it is seen as a great honor. The three wisemen who had been to Herod, the ones who are recorded in your Scriptures, gave unto Jeshua gold.

The gold was a great treasure. It took care of us in the next three years of our timing, although we knew not at that moment that we would be making trek to a far land. And the gold that was left, the balance of it was saved for Jeshua for when he was of an older age and made journey to the East to study. The gold was there to provide for that journey. The gifts were far-reaching, and they were those appropriate for a king.

After the wisemen had shared their gifts, they took their leave of us, and the three who had visited Herod on the way and had been requested by Herod to stop by and let him know where the newborn king was abiding had a revelation not to go back the same way that they had come. They departed by another route and did not return to Herod.

In time the other two went on their way on their journey back to their respective countries.

JESHUA Q&A

FINANCIAL ADVICE

I want to ask you about our financial future. I heard about the collapse of banks and new quantum systems. Should we take our cash from banks while we still can and buy physical gold or silver? Ramtha gave us good financial advice back in the 80's and 90's, which was to buy gold and hold it. We can see how good that was now. I'm asking for some kind of advice.

First of all, you will always be taken care of; bottom line, full stop, period. You will always be taken care of. Even if it means that you release the body, you will be taken care of. The body talks to you, it screams to you, it says, "I don't want to be hungry, I don't want to be cold, I don't want to be hurt, etc."

But the body is not you. The body is your creation, and if you have created it, you can re-create it if you want to. There are many ways of knowing your Reality—capital "R"—without having to use a body. In fact, the body is a bit of a hindrance to knowing the spiritual you. You have to look past the body.

But the body is a fun thing to play with. You all know this. You have your playthings, play places, things that you do that are fun in the physical. So I'm not putting down the physical life. I'm just saying that that is but one aspect of creativity, and there are many, many more that you may want to adventure with, and you will—in time and outside of time.

Now, getting specific, if you have a very strong message to take your money out of the bank, do that. But if you are in a place of saying, "Well, maybe I'll leave some of it in the bank, and some of it I will put into gold; in other words, I will hedge my bets a bit and I'll be taken care of, one way or another," follow your inner teacher.

In truth, bottom line, you do not need the physical money. You do not have to have the golden coins. You have qualities that you can exchange for what the body needs. It does not have to be in coinage. But if that gives you a feeling of security and you enjoy sitting and playing with the feeling of metal coins, whatever, do that.

In other words, one way is not more right or safe than another. You have created the body. You have created the meal that you just ate. You have created the physical dwelling place, even if it be out somewhere in a cave. You are always taken care of. Do that which brings you a good feeling.

Is there going to be a financial crash? As it is seen now, no. There are going to be some hints and talks about it, but that has already happened; that has already come to your awareness. "You know, the economy is really, really shaky, and I don't know what's going to be happening, so therefore I'm going to take some of my money and put it into hard cash I can hold, that I can exchange later."

How do you know that it's going to be worth X, Y, and Z later? You don't really know; you're trusting. You are having to trust that at the time when you need to turn it in, you'll have it. But I would say unto you, you all have abilities that you can sell. And that doesn't mean something in a crass way or crude. I mean that you all have abilities that will enable you to have food on your table. So do that which you are guided to do, that which brings you pleasure.

VACCINES THE ANSWER?

Anything more about this whole idea of the vaccine being the salvation for this virus? Do you have any thoughts about that that you can share?

Of course. Yes, for some there is belief that the answer has to be outside of themselves; therefore, there will be proof that will come, and ones will get the injection and say, "Ah, there; now I have power over this virus." Others have said, "That's not going to work for me. This little thing, it's not going to work. I don't believe it." So for them, they just keep on keeping on and don't need it.

So it's always in our consciousness.

Yes, it is a matter of consciousness.

INDOMITABLE SPIRIT

Help me to understand the reason I chose to have a disability, using a wheelchair, being a go-getter, independent, but not knowing what to do with it. I have no idea if I'm supposed to be doing something different.

Well, first of all, you are being most creative. You have chosen this form of going through life in order to prove the reality and essence of life, no matter what the body form says to you. You have made a form that says, "Well, I can't get around as easily as some other people can," but you do not sit still. You get quite creative in your way of expression, and you are to be commended for not just sitting. You would be bored just sitting. So you have said, "Well, I'm going to see what I can create that looks to be a disability, and yet I'm going to keep my ability. You are not going to hold me back."

You have often had that spirit of, "You are not going to hold me back." You are one who has come very close to exiting the body, and ones have said, "That one is finished." But you have said, "Oh, no, I'm not finished. Nope, I'm not finished," and you've come back in great strength. You sat up and looked at them, and they backed up. This was one of your lifetimes where you had the spear through what seemingly was the heart, and you were gone.

But no, you sat up and said to them, "Take this thing away," and you got up and walked. You scared the you-know-what out of them. This lifetime you have said, "Well, I'm going to play a variation on a theme of showing how strong the spirit is," so I commend you. Keep on being spirited. That is what it is all about. Keep on being yourSelf—capital "S". Know that always I walk with you. You are a great teacher.

WHERE ARE THEY?

Which books did you read in India when you studied there, or with the Essenes? Are any of the books, or maybe even the Essenes and the masters, still around?

They could still be around. Yes, they are. Your teachers are all around you. They are your friends. They are your books. They are ones that just happened to turn up when you were asking a question, and perhaps something will come in your mail and you will look at it and say, "I was just thinking about that; or maybe I wasn't, but here it is." And you get an answer to something that has been on your mind, but in the back of the mind.

All of you are great creators. I have said this many, many times to you, and I will continue to say it. You create what seems to be the problem, and then you create what seems to be the solution. You create what causes you pain, and then you create that which eliminates it or shows you the reason for it.

Ones have asked, "Why, then, Jeshua, did we create this pandemic? Why would we create something that is such a hindrance to the joyful expression of life?" You have created it in order to see what you could create, because you have said, "I want to see what else there is."

Some of your friends will say, "Well, that's stupid answer. That's a stupid way to go. Why create something that is so difficult to experience in order just to know that I can create?" Well, I ask of you, "Why do it that way?" Because you want to, because you can.

Sometimes I have questioned, "Why do you make it so difficult for yourself, oh son of the one Source?"

I see you when you work with your technology and you try different things. You plug in this one and fiddle with that one and, "Ach, the whole thing disappeared. Where did it go? Oh, I've got to get it back again. So you get it back again and say, "Now, I'm not going to do exactly what I just did, because I know what happens then, so I will change this little part and see if I can bring in from that part." Why do you do it? Because of that feeling of accomplishment when you get it to work. "Oh, hey, it works," and there is great joyfulness. And I ask of you, "Is it worth it?" And the answer is yes. Yes, it is worth it.

CARBON BASED VERSUS CRYSTALLINE

In Book 7 you said that we will be evolving out of carbon-based bodies into crystalline body form and that that has already started. Isn't that a stage that we went through when we lowered our vibrations into this physical density, and could you tell us more about the crystalline forms and how that would be an advantage to our evolution.

It is part of a stream of evolution that ones have chosen to know, but not all have come through the same stream of evolution to the place where they know that they are spirit; spirit making a reality to experience—that makes sense.

So you have what you see to be different streams of understanding, of development perhaps. These are all equal. They are all bringing you to the same place of enlightenment, the same place that says, "Oh, okay, now I see. Before I could only see it kind of dimly, but now in this stream of consciousness I understand."

Different ones will come by different routes to the same place, the same conclusion, the same aha. "Oh, I Am That I Am, full stop, period." But the journey to get there can be varied, and it can be straight on or it can be, "Oh, I want to take the meandering route, because I enjoy the woods, the forest, the hillside, the daisies. I want to see everything."

Most of you who come to this realization with these questions, you are the ones who have said, "I want to know, how does it feel to be a cat? How does it feel to be a bat? How does it feel to be a flower? How does it feel to be human? Oh, that's a hard one; to be human." So you have tried it over and over, variation upon variation. You are great creators. And if there is anything left that you have not experienced, you will bring it up to experience it.

Now, what was the original question? (About crystalline form versus the human carbon-based form.) Okay. Neither is better than the other. Each is an expression of creativity. You have tried different ones and said, "Well, there's something really beautiful about this expression, but the crystalline breaks so easily. Okay, so I'm going to make this more pliable. I'm going to try being fluid. But that doesn't have the same feeling of power and form. Okay, I'll try another, etc."

Great creators that you are. You have said, “I want to know, and by knowing, I want to experience all, and I’m not leaving until I have experienced all of it.”

I have seen you stand with hands on hips—figuratively anyway—and say, “I’m going to take that path because I don’t know where it goes, and I want to know, where does it go?” So you set out on a journey and you hike until you get to the top of the mountain and say, “Well, if I hadn’t done this, look at what I would have missed.” You do that literally and figuratively so that you can experience all.

Does that include Artificial Intelligence?

Of course. What are you activating just now? (My computer.) Exactly. What kind of intelligence is it? (There are some crystals in there.) Exactly, yes. It has intelligence, but it is the intelligence that you have believed would be in it to enable you to see someone who lives miles and miles away from you over the sea somewhere. And because you are creative, because you believe, it is there for you.

Well, I’m most grateful to this technology so that I can see my brothers and sisters all over the world. It’s a wonderful miracle.

Yes, and a two-way street, because they are enjoying being with you.

HELP FOR CATS

What about my cats and their various physical problems? Is there anything I can do for them, or would you please send some healing energies to them?

Again, they are in different form, but they are the same as the human ones that we have spoken of. They wish to know life in all its goodness and all of its challenges as well. These ones are living out a soul purpose to know, how does it feel to go on four feet; how does it feel to go with certain intuition, and there is a mental attitude that is quite common to these four-footed ones; not quite the same as some of the other four-footed ones in size and inclination.

This one [Judi’s cat] likes to sleep a lot. Where does this one go when she sleeps? Away. She experiences lifetimes, okay. So for these ones, what will be most beneficial for the human is to bless them. It is to say, “You are a wonderful creation. I am happy that you have come to share life with me; however long, however short.”

These ones do not suffer the same as humans. It is either on or it’s off, and they don’t spend time worrying about what is going to be in the future. They take it and leave it. They are much wiser in some ways, because they do not have to agonize over what might happen. So love these ones. Put the hand on them from time to time. Let them feel the love, the warmth of the hand, the warmth of the heart. If they will accept it, pick them up and hold them and let them feel that love.

Pretty soon they’re going to want to get down; they’re going to be independent and say, “Enough already, I get the message.” But these ones are living out their soul purpose. If you will accept it, you have lived the lifetimes as the small household pet. You have lived the lifetimes of being the great beast of the forest, a four-footed cat, for the sheer experience of it.

These ones have come to share life with you; share it, be happy, and allow them to have their expression for as long or as short as it is. There are certain herbal things called pharmaceuticals now that your wise ones can use to alleviate some pain that they may be experiencing, so you can do what you can do for them.

But the main point is to allow them to have their experience and to love them through it, in it, as it, and know that truly you have walked on the four feet yourself. So be at One.

SILVER CITY

I had an image come to me of a silver city. What is that about?

That comes from the saying of the City of Light set upon the hill. It has to do with your realization of Light, the realization that truly that is where you dwell, in the place of great Light, Illumination. The silver city has been seen to be the answer to whatever the question might be. It is the highest achievement of the place where you know that, “I and the Father, otherwise known as Source, are One. I Am That I Am.” When you get to that place, you are abiding in the silver city, the City of Light, the place of Enlightenment.

You can use that as a terminology which will help to explain it—the place of Enlightenment, the place where the light bulb comes on and you say, “Oh, this is what I was wondering about. This is...I see, I feel, I know the answer, and I’ve known it all along.” And you have. There is no question that you can ask that does not have an answer, and the answer is always yes. But it’s fun to watch you running around like chickens trying to find it. Nothing wrong with chickens.
