

Jeshua Speaks about His/Your Life

1998-10-25

Detroit

Beloved and holy and only child of our Heavenly Father, child of the one source, child of light divine. That is who you are. Take it deeply into the mind, take it deeply into the heart and contemplate what that means. Divine child of the one Source, unlimited, forever and always, before and beyond time, loved and love, beloved.

I am the one known as Jeshua ben Joseph – Jesus, you have called me – and it is in great joy that I come to abide with you this evening in your timing as you have chosen once again to call me forth. Great joy for it is your divine birthright. Great joy, claim it often. Live in the divine birthright. Know you how to revel, please claim that once again. Love the mate. Love the friends. Love everyone in your life and most of all, reclaim the love of self.

For indeed these are times in a belief which you have, times of great polarity. We have spoken that this reality in which you live is based in the belief of duality, the belief of good and evil. The belief in love and fear and it is time now, you are decreeing that it is time now to bring all of it into a most wonderful integration and to remember who you are.

I would speak with you this evening about your life. It is a topic that you have considered, a topic you have wondered about and it is a very good topic for contemplation. For indeed you have asked, "Why am I here? What is this all about? Have I been sent to this planet, cast out? Have I been sent to relive and to pay back karma? Why am I here? What is it all about?" And indeed these times, these days you live in right now they bring all of the issues right up in front of the nose for you to look at. You cannot escape.

You are bringing such a most wonderful oneness to yourself. Technology that will not let you escape the awareness of what the brothers and sisters are doing all over the surface and within our Holy Mother, the Earth. You are bringing through your technology instant communication which proves to yourself that which is a great truth, that you are not separate from the brothers and sisters. You sit at your most wonderful symbolic keyboard and the screen and you write from your heart to another one not yet perhaps seeing the visage, the form of that one but speaking truly heart to heart. It is a wonderful communication that you are bringing about and you do it because this is indeed the close of an age and a birthing of a new age and you have wanted to know, desired to know. You have prayed to know non-separation. To do away with all of that which is painful, constrictive, limited and to reclaim once again the Father's love.

Therefore, you have gone about it in the most creative way with your technology and I applaud you for it. I love to watch what we are bringing forth in this day and time. It is a miracle and yet you live with miracles everyday if you have the eyes to see them.

You are beginning to look for the miracles in your life. To look for not that which has been sorrowful, heavy, heavy duty, but to look for the miracles. To look for what is good and to praise what is good.

Many of you look upon your technology with great awe and wonder and that is as it should be, but allow yourself to go one step further and to thank yourself for the technology that you are bringing forth for indeed you are not separate from anything that you experience. If it is within your consciousness you are not separate from it.

I will speak to you first of my life. You have parts of it recorded in your holy scriptures. You have other parts of it recorded in writings which have been handed down throughout the ages, sacred works and works which are being written now through memory, rekindled memory. Ones which are of revelatory nature for they go back and pick up remembrances, lineage if you will, that that one knows and will write about in this day and time as if he/she were there and it is true that they have been and you are part of that memory of my life.

And I will share with you in this evening my life because it is symbolic of yours, of the journey that you are making in this day and time. There has been much written in your holy scriptures of all of the signs and wonders attendant upon my birth and indeed it was a most wonderful time as is this time. A birthing of a newborn it is a miracle every time and those of you who are in the roles of being parents and grandparents, aunts, uncles and even godparents to the newborn, you look upon that one and you realize, you make real in your awareness what a miracle new life is and you say, "How tiny. How tiny they start out to be. What a knowing there is in the eyes," and there is a knowing, a remembrance of heaven if you will, that has not yet been molded by the society and by all of the values of the world.

When I was born, most wondrous time. The angels did sing, yes, as the angels sang at your birth. For indeed the angels celebrate every time an individuated energy chooses once again to come to this plane to express and to experience. And there was a light around my mother, a light around me, a light around my father, Joseph as you have seen in the depictions, the paintings that you have. A light that is in this day and time around you if you have but the eyes to see it and the courage to claim it.

For all of you are great lights. You are much more than the body, thank goodness for that. You are the spirit that activates the body and when I was birthed and chose to know new life upon this plane I came with a remembrance of my Father's love, of heaven, if you will, of the greater universe of oneness as you did as well.

And as I grew in stature I remembered the joy of living. The simple pleasure of being alive as the small ones do. A spontaneity, if you will, of rediscovery of what this plane of experience is all about. Did I bring old memories with me? Some, yes, for that was not the first lifetime upon this plane that I had incarnated, the same as you. You have brought some memories with you from other lifetimes. If truth be told, there is a wealth, a treasure of experience upon which you can call to see you through any challence in this life. And there are times when you go deep within and there is a knowing, a wisdom that comes forth, a creativity that you do not quite understand, where did that revelation come from in that moment? And you will attribute it to oftentimes, a guide, an angel, someone unseen and yet it is the wisdom of you deep within that you are calling upon.

So as I grew in stature to the place of being the toddler in what you who moves about, it was with great joy, great rediscovery what it means to be incarnate and with memory of love.

I knew my oneness with all of nature, with all of life forms as you have known and as you are rediscovering in this day and time. I knew my oneness with all that grows and flowers and gives forth of the fruits for the nourishment of the body. And I asked of my mother who was among my greatest teachers, I ask of my mother, "Could I have a small bit of ground to grow my own garden?" And she said, "Of course."

Some of the villagers, some of the friends of family with whom I lived, wondered why they would set aside precious ground and water for a small one who was only of the toddling age or a bit older, to have his own garden. But it was something that I needed to re-experience and reaffirm for myself in experience the oneness with all life and the encouragement of all life.

Know you that as you will grow a plant you will speak to the plant. You will love it. You will communicate with the plant and encourage it, it will grow and blossom and bloom and be the most wonderful plant.

But if you look upon a plant and you say, "Oh, terrible weed." The plant feels your judgment, your hostility, your separation and it will do its best to live because it is the life force, but sometimes your energy can be a bit negating.

So I grew my garden and in time there were fruits that came from the garden. Fruits that we enjoyed and some fruits that we set aside for time when we would need food, seeds, fruit. And there came to be a time when there was the other crops did not grow as well and we called upon what I had set aside from my little patch of garden.

I was very happy as a child. I knew the radiance of the sunlight. I knew the radiance of my Father's love. I knew the radiance of love within the family and with the extended family as well. And I learned at my mother's knee what needed to be in the way of understanding the language. And when I was old enough which was not very old, I went to stay with the village teacher who had a grouping of young ones who instructed us in what was accepted language and knowledge at that time. I wanted to know everything. I questioned the same as you have. I questioned, why, why is there certain language? Why does sound mean something? Why are societal customs as they are? Every time I turned around I was asking why. You know this with the small ones. It is a very necessary process of remembrance.

And so I asked and I was answered and I asked again because I wanted the deeper meaning as the small ones will ask of you over and over and you give them an answer and you think, "Why are they not satisfied?" They want to know the deeper meaning and so they keep asking.

Truly until they remember the deeper meaning for themselves and sometimes there were ones of the extended family who grew a bit tired of my questionings and sent me off to play in my garden, but that was okay, too.

Then I reached an age where it was customary for those who were of certain families who wanted to know more than just the language of the time and the rudiments of society to be sent to a community, a most wonderful community by the sea. And so I made trek with some other from the village, one other very close friend who accompanied me who has accompanied me throughout many lifetimes and he remembers it well.

And we made trek to a certain community to learn from the masters there. The ancient scriptures, the ancient writings, the ancient wisdom and I studied, I was as a sponge that was thirsty and again I asked, "Why? Why?" Until sometimes my teachers told me to go and sit by flowing water and to breathe, to be quiet, to be still and know what I knew inside, that I am the answer to every question I could ask.

I agreed in that lifetime as you have agreed in this lifetime that I would be a bridge, that I would integrate the spiritual with the physical. I agreed that I would come to be messiah to my people, yes, and to be messiah, to be teacher, to be rabbi meant that I needed to know human experience as well as spiritual oneness and spiritual truth. The same as you have agreed that you will come and be a bridge between the spiritual remembrance of oneness and the activity within the physical.

And so I grew in wisdom and in stature asking, learning of this world. Playing the role of human the same as you do in this day and time, learning the ancient writings, the ancient studies the same as you are doing in this day and time for you are attracted to various methods, methods of healing which you have known in other lifetimes and have practiced, have facilitated in many lifetimes, many avenues of study, of study of the parts so that you would come to knowing of the whole. A study of the lights in the heavens, astronomy as you know it now and astrology with the deeper symbolic meaning. Numerology as the numbers. What do the individual numbers mean and how do they fit together to make a greater whole, very symbolic of your journey of wanting to know oneness, to remember.

So I studied languages of that day and time. I studied languages of symbols. I studied the language of the heavens and I studied the language of within, the same as you have been doing.

For my lifetime it is as a road map that show you what you are doing in this lifetime and the times then were very much akin to what you are living in now. For there were experiences of love, great brotherly love and experiences of great violence and inhumanity and lack of love. Much of judgment. Much of fear. Much of oppression. Much of the feeling of victimhood. Much of resentment, arrogance, warfare of all types the same as you see in this day and time.

The warfare that is most obvious and apparent and the warfare that takes place within you as you are at war with your desires of who you want to be and yet when the buttons get pushed the person that comes out then and reacts to those buttons. So the times then were very much as the times now that you are living in and you agreed that you would come one more time to this plane of reality – with a small “r” – and you would bring the Reality of you –with a capital “R” – into this plane of drama. This plane that believes that there could be duality, something other than the Father, and that you will bring your light, your creativity and your remember and all of the joy of that remembrance into this plane that is calling out so deeply for remembrance and for love and for healing.

Know you that is why so many of you are attracted to do the physical healing? It is because of a very sincere desire in the heart to heal all of the souls who have forgotten, forgotten who they are. All of the wounded souls who are as the walking wounded. Know you that so many of the brothers and sisters you look upon are the walking wounded? Wounded in the soul and yet walking through an experience of lifetimes.

You, yourself are a bit of the walking wounded for you feel that you carry heavy, heavy baggage, heavy concerns. This is a time, a time of healing. A time of an ending of an age that has believed that life has to be suffering, a struggle and it is the birthing of a new age, an age of remembrance, an age of healing. That is why I came to live that lifetime the same as you have come into this lifetime.

Because of certain demonstrations that I made in that lifetime I have been held as above you. But in truth I am your equal for you are the child of the Father, created in the likeness and image of the Father's love. You are an extension of the Father living a human experience the same as I did.

And after I had studied in that most wonderful community of the Essenes at a place by the sea which was surrounded by the most beautiful nature, it was time for me to study with other masters and I began a journey, an adventure with a companion to make trek unto far lands. And I journeyed to India to study with the masters there, to learn of them the revelations which they were remembering and the revelations which had been handed down through time and written in their language. And I was known in that land and written about for I knew and remembered my oneness with the Father to the place where there was even visible radiance. There was a presence that was felt around me as there is around you when you allow yourself to live in love. When you are so happy that you feel everything is right with your world. There is a presence that is around you and others can feel it as you walk into a room.

It was the same with me, with my studies in the sacred place known as India. I journeyed also to the place you now call Egypt and reconnected with ones who had been most helpful to my mother and father when we spent some time there when I was very, very small.

I journeyed to a place you call now the most wonderful mountains of Tibet and studied with ones who are still there, if you will receive it. Ones who are masters now and still living that lifetime. And you say, "But Jeshua, surely two thousand years they would have laid down the body many times."

They have laid down the body to allow it to rest but not deceased it for they have known that the body is the creation of spirit and it can be reactivated at any time and it can be as young as you want it to be, in the prime of your life. And so they have lived in the prime for what you count as two thousand years and they are still counting. Still alive and well teaching and living and being the presence of life upon this plane.

I traveled to a place that you know now as an island country, the country of Britain, Great Britain and I studied with masters there. For it was part of my agreement that I would go and reconnect with masters whom I had known and still know who were serving in different place upon the face of our Holy Mother, the Earth and I would rekindle the joy of remembrance with them, the joy of brotherhood. So from the age of eighteen unto the time that you have it recorded that I returned to begin my ministry, I made trek unto many lands and I studied.

Many of you have been desirous of and have made trek to other lands as you see them, foreign lands. Lands that are a bit geographically removed from the place of the biological birth. Many of you have felt a desire deep within you to go to a place far away to study there, to walk the streets, to walk out in nature, to breath the air. Maybe not even knowing why you felt such a calling to go there and yet it has been very deep within your heart, a desire to go. "I must go, "I don't know why."

Some of you have been finding recently that you have been traveling more than you ever thought you would do. And I assure you it will continue for you are on the move. Not on the move just with the physical though, on the move within. Yes, making great movement within.

All of you have been making the most wonderful journey to foreign lands in your readings, in the books that have come to hand, the books that you are hungry for. You cannot wait to find something. You will walk into a place that has a collection of the gifts of writing and one will jump off the shelf at you. Perhaps hit you on the head or at the feet and no one else is around and you wonder, "Why did that happen? Small earthquake." Well yes, it was the earthquake of your own heart that stirred it. And you have been making trek many foreign lands, foreign as you see it in this point of focus of this lifetime.

So even if you haven't taken the physical body to what you see as other countries, you have very much visited other countries in your awareness, in your reading, in the tapes that you have. Most beautiful technology again, where you can listen to a voice which will speak to you in a language of sound and if truth be told, the messages in between all of the sounds, the message speaks to your heart.

It is the same with your written word, you will read certain passages of writing and it is the heart that comes alive and you say, "I know something of the deeper meaning of that writing. It stirs within me a feeling of home, a feeling of celebration, a feeling of hope," when you have needed hope.

For indeed always you bring forth into your experience that which will be as catalyst for your remembrance and there is a most wonderful timing about it. It does not come before you are ready for it, before you have invited it and when you are ready and you do invite it, it will appear in book form, in tape form, in human form, in four legged form, in the form of the unseen. The voice, the communication of Spirit, of the angels, of our Father, the guidance, the inner wisdom that you have asked for.

So when I came unto the time of my ministry, those most miraculous three years that are somewhat recorded in your holy scriptures, for indeed not everything is recorded, I came with a wealth of experience and of remembrance. And yet I knew human temptation. I knew human emotions, and I wondered at the beginning of the ministry, how to go about what has been called my ministry now. I did not know it was going to be a ministry at that point. I never called it a ministry but it has been labeled thus after.

I only wanted to be of service as you are wanting to be of service to my brothers and sisters. I wanted to share all that which I was remembering, that which had been shared with me. And the voice of human world spoke to me and said, "You know enough magic that you can make a great demonstration and you can show the power of wizardry, of magic. And brothers and sisters will come to you even the learned ones who are of the certain class of studies. They will come and want to know. They will be at your feet.

But I knew that would not serve the brothers and sisters for indeed, you can gift them. You have a saying, you can give them a fish and it is gone within one meal. But if you teach them to fish they will eat for that lifetime.

I knew that that was not the way to serve. I knew human temptation, but I also knew that I wanted the service to be of lasting value, to bring again the remembrance of Home, of the Father's love to those who had the ears to hear it.

And so I collected unto myself a small grouping of ones to begin with who wanted to know what more is there to life. They knew already that there was certain role to play in society, as you know, certain responsibilities of relationships, of parenting, of providing for the family. Certain role of responsibility of earning golden coins, to nurture and nourish the body. But I recognized there was an inner hunger, a wanting to know how to serve themselves with the small "s" and the Self with the capital "S", the greater Self.

And so I gathered to myself a small group and I spoke of that which I knew. That which was revelatory for me coming back always to how loved we are by a loving Father. For indeed in those times it was as you hold even now a patriarchal society. It is changing now for indeed there are the women who are saying, "I am equal," and this is true.

But I spoke of our Father for it was a language that was understood in that day and time. Now you have wording which is all inclusive, Father, Mother, All that Is, One Source, Creator, Great Spirit, whatever you will choose. You are beginning to remember the Allness.

But I taught of our Father's love for indeed the brothers and sisters went heavy through that lifetime the same as you have found from time to time that the weight of the world weighs heavy upon the shoulders and the responsibility of parenting, of being the provider can be heavy upon the shoulders and the questions can come up, "Am I doing the right thing? How do I make the right decision?" And throughout it all there is the voice of ego that says, "You have tried but you have not come far enough with it. Somehow you are lacking, you are failing. Somehow the life has not quite been fulfilling enough." And you know that voice of ego very, very well.

So I spoke to my brothers and sisters in that day and time as I speak to you now. You are so greatly loved by the one Creator. You are life itself. I don't think you will disagree that you are alive. You are here. You are breathing. You are life. And if you are life, you have meaning, you have value.

You are so greatly loved that in truth you have never been judged. It has only been a dream that you have brought forth that said, there could be other than the Father and the Father's love.

For indeed being the child of the one Creator you are creative by nature and you have said to yourself aeons of time ago at the birthing of time, "What can I create?" For it is your nature to create. And so you have created most wondrous dimensions and realities and this is not the only dimension and reality which you have created and are creating and will create as you see the lineage of time.

But you have said, "I will create a most wonderful dream. I will dream that I am separate from the Father. I will dream that I could be other than the most wonderful child. And I will see how that feels." And so in the process of time which you find to be so real, you created and in the beginning your creations were as they are now, most wonderful and you knew oneness with your creations. You knew that you imbued them with the life force which you are.

But in time you became so mesmerized by the creations, so identified with the creations that you forgot who was creating and you began to give power to the creations to the place where you felt the creations had power over you. And yet it has all been because of the creative nature of the divine holy Child.

So I spoke to you in that day and time as I speak to you now, to remember the Father's love, to honor life, to value self because you are life and to honor brothers and sisters because they are the life force expressing and to honor every form of life and to know that you are one with all of life expressing.

And I spoke to you in the process of remembering that you are one with all of the creations and to honor those creations, to know as an extension of that oneness that indeed your Father is one with you. And I spoke, I and the Father are one, as you are.

It is a basic truth. You could not be if you were not one with the Father. You are an extension of the creative life force of the Father. And once you begin to glimpse what that means all of the old messages of ego begin to fall away.

You hear the voice of ego and the messages yes, but you say, "That is something of the past. That is not serving me now." I would suggest to you in this evening that whenever you hear the voice of ego speaking to you, you receive it not in judgment but to just say, "Okay, what is the communication? What is the message?" And you sit with that message and you ask, "Does that message serve me now?"

And if it does not, you allow it to be in the past and you thank it for being in the past for it has been part of your creations of what you have decreed the adventure would be all about, but you can move on. Indeed that is what these times are all about, about moving on.

So I gathered to myself most wonderful brothers and sisters who wanted to know as you are wanting to know, what is life all about? Why do I suffer? Why do I feel disappointment? Why do I feel possible threat? Why do I fear? And most of all, how do I come up over all of those feeling? How do I understand it and put it into the context of holy vision?

You are beginning to remember for yourselves why you are here and the joy of being here. You have not been sent here as punishment. You have not been outcast to the farthest star in the universe even though you see yourself to be on the edge of what you call your Milky Way. You have not been outcast and forgotten. In truth you can never be forgotten for you are part of the vast unlimited ocean of being that is as a great wave of consciousness upon this plane interwoven into all dimensions and realities.

And even as you see yourself to be a point of focus, an individuality of divine energy, you are connected with all of the vast ocean of beingness, never ever separate from it. You cannot be.

So you are beginning to catch a glimpse of how worthy you are, how wonderful life is and can be even though you see on the one hand much of conflict, much of sorrow, much of arguments, many who are going through all of their issues and because they are most generous they want to share those issues with you.

Even in times such as that there is a knowing deep within you that I am part of this reality, yes, but I am much more than that. There is a still small voice that speaks to you, a still small voice which says, "Be still. Attend to me and know that I am God."

The I Am-ness of you is the Father, it is God. I am that which I am forever, before time and beyond time. And when the purpose of time has been fulfilled, I will still be that which I am. That is the truth of your being.

So you are attending more and more to the still small voice that speaks even in the roar of the worldly activities, even in the roar and judgment of the ego that says, "Everything is wrong with my life. What have I accomplished? Where am I going with it? What have I done in this lifetime that is of lasting value?"

Well I will share with you that if you have smiled upon a flower in this lifetime you have done something of lasting value. If you have smiled upon a brother or a sister and encouraged them, you have done something of lasting value.

As you have connected in one moment with the love of the heart you have done something of lasting value. And where you have walked will be blessed because you have walked that way in love with a smile.

Now, do you think you can do that? Of course you can do that. You have already it many, many times over.

These days that you are living in now they are most wondrous times. Times of great conflict, judgment, polarity. Times when you cannot escape what is happening in the consciousness of the brothers and sisters at any point on the surface of our Holy Mother, the Earth.

If you have suffering, sorrow, conflict, inhumanity happening half a world away, the brothers and sisters who serve as your messengers, your media they bring it right to your conscious awareness. They are your messengers. You have asked them, will they do this for you?

You live in a most wondrous time where you can no longer isolate and insulate yourself from what is going on with all of the aspects of you. For indeed as you will look upon the drama of one living thousands of miles away from you are one with that one in consciousness. That one is an aspect of your holy Self and you are not separate.

If that one is in your conscious awareness there is no separation. It is realized awareness. Even if that one is not in your conscious awareness you still are joined in oneness with this one. Especially with the conscious awareness it is realized. These are wondrous times because you have asked to have it proved to you in evidence that you do not walk this journey, this adventure alone.

So you will see on the one hand experiences that make your heart cry. And you will see on the other hand experiences that make you glad for you will see choices made to extend love and help.

Now a word of suggestion here. As you will see experiences which bring to you the opportunity of the heart crying, the ego will be very quick to suggest to you that you be in judgment of the ones who seem to be oppressing the downtrodden. The ego will say, "How could the brothers and sisters inflict such drama upon me if I am not separate from that one?"

Then it is for you to sit with that message and to go one step further and see that you are not separate from the ones who are inflicting and judging. In other words, you are not separate from the ones who see themselves playing the role of victim and the ones who see themselves playing the role of oppressor. And it is for you to take all of them within the heart and love them, to bless them and to stand back with holy vision and watch the most wonderful divine dance that is being done and not to judge.

Now that is very difficult for the ego. It is very difficult for the consciousness which has been molded and shaped by the world. To stand back and be the beholder and to watch the dance. The ego will say that is uncaring.

And yet I will say to you that it is the most wonderful motivating force, the catalyst for all of those involved in the divine dance. A most wonderful catalyst that will thrust them into the place of remembering that they are more than the body, more than the human experience and more than any worldly experience.

Now, does this mean that you go uncaring? No, it does not. Follow the guidance of the heart. After you have stood back and been the beholder and looked for, asked for the holy vision of the divine dance, then follow the guidance that comes to you. It may be guidance just to hold them in prayer, in healing vision. It may be to send some tangible help. Some of your golden coins perhaps. Some of your tangible goods, the raiment, the food, the blankets, whatever. Whatever the guidance suggests to you follow it after you have received and seen the holy vision.

For indeed the brothers and sisters who played the roles that are most are your teachers and are your servants and they have agreed because of the great masters which they are they will play a role which looks very, very difficult. They are your servants. They are aspects of you, of the courageous one, which is you.

For indeed if you will sit for a moment in your quiet time you will know that indeed you have walked that journey yourself. You have known lifetimes where you have felt the victim of oppression. You have walked the lifetimes of knowing how to be the great conqueror, the one who knew temporal power and used it to control the brothers and sisters.

And yet when you reached the end of that lifetime you realized that there was a greater power that was controlling you. And some of those lifetimes you were most bitter when you came to releasing the body because all of the worldly power it could not change the moment when you knew you had to release the body and all that which you had amassed for yourself.

So in truth you have walked the journey of every man, every woman. You have been the courageous one even in this lifetime, who has gone through the experiences of the slings and arrows of the world and of the worlds manipulation, the worlds activities and judgment.

So the day and time which I shared with you that seems to be so long ago, that day and those times are being relived now and you have opportunity once again to do that which you did in that day and time. And you say, "Well, Jeshua, was I there?" Well I would ask of you, come awake now, where you there?

Yes. Yes.

Each and everyone of you answer, where you there? Indeed you were. There is knowing deep within your heart. You would not be here in this evening if there were not a knowing, a calling, a familiarity, a resonance. It is not by accident that you have accepted the invitation to be here in this evening even though some of you had to come great distances to be here.

There was a knowing deep within you that I have to be there. For the invitation it has gone out to many and you are the ones who heard the invitation and who were at that point of readiness that said, "I must be there no matter how I work all of the finances of it, all of the transportation of it, etc. I will be there." For indeed you walked with me in the lifetime that is so famous and written about.

All of you, if truth be told, you have been written about in your historical books the same as that lifetime of mine. All of you have been the teachers, the masters who have written some of the ancient scriptures and you come into this lifetime and the ego says to you, "But what are you doing? You have studied here and there. You have followed this train of thought, this knowledge, this path. Perhaps you followed it far enough to have a certification. Perhaps you have not in the way of the world." The ego is very quick to point out to you where it is possible to judge self and say that you are not worthy.

And yet I say unto you, all of you are great masters who have written the classics, the ancient writings. All of you have been the ones who in several lifetimes have been held up as the most wonderful examples of beauty, of art, of knowledge, of caring, of healing, of the voice which was lifted up in gladness. All of you.

So when the voice of ego says, "Ah, but you are just a speck of dust living a very short lifetime." You say to that ego, "Look you, I am that which I am from before time began and I have lived the most wonderful experiences. I can relate to the ballerina, the grace of the most wonderful dancer. I can relate to the most wonderful voices. I sing my song in my heart. I can relate to the greatest minds of my time. I may not know how all of the computers work, but I can relate and honor those who have felt that to be their calling in this time. I have a knowing that goes beyond this lifetime." Of course you do.

You have been faced from time to time with choice. A time of decision. A time when you had to make a decision, perhaps very quickly. A time of crisis even and you have found a strength within yourself that you did not know you had. A knowing that was not given to you by another person but you knew. Say to the ego, "I have great depth of knowledge," because you do.

These days that you are living in now they are challenging days. Even in the microcosm of what you see as your relationships and your places of employment. There is much energy. It is the energy of birthing if truth be told. These days are most wondrous times. Times of allowing you to come past the identification with just small self, with individual self. Times when you will call upon your heritage. Heritage as you see this lifetime, yes, to be and heritage throughout a whole lineage of lifetimes and then the divine heritage of that which you are.

I would suggest to you a simple exercise, something that will be fun to do. When next you are in relationship with one and this need not be what you call committed relationship, but any relationship where you are one on one with another one. To allow the inner sight to come forth. You can do what you call the closing of the eyes just briefly. They will think you are just resting. You don't have to have the eyes closed for a long time, but just long enough to go within and behold that one's energy. See them as energy. See how their energy is playing for indeed energy is most dynamic, always in a flow.

If you are in relationship with one who is feeling the issues come up and perhaps they are going toe to toe with you about something, see their energy. See it as the most dynamic flow of brilliant light.

Now in truth they are brilliant even if they don't know it. And watch the interplay of energy. If you are in relationship with one whom you do not feel a great resonance with, go within and feel that one's energy. Feel your own energy. See it. It will allow you a bit of the distancing, not separation, but distancing so that you can behold them anew.

For indeed oftentimes when a conflict arises it is because you are toe to toe and nose to nose with that one even in your mind and what you will want to do is to step back, a most divine holy step back to be the beholder. To allow a little bit of light in between yourself.

So as you will close the eyes just for a moment just to kind of clear the vision, that is all it takes, just a certain clearing of the vision and to go within even as the eyes are open, to go within and behold their energy. You are able to appreciate the divinity of that one much more than when you behold just their form with which perhaps you have had some issue from time to time.

Then if you desire to see them healed, in the next moment of beholding the energy, see the energy as the most integrated harmonious golden white light. Feel a peace and allow that peace that you feel then to envelope even the light which you are beholding the energy of them. It will bring about healing. Healing of the body, sometimes and most definitely healing of the soul which is truly what that one is calling out for.

Because, always, always when ones are in conflict, when ones are in great consternation it is because the woundedness of them calling out for healing. The soul is calling out to know their own holiness, their own wholeness, perfection which they do not see themselves.

So the ones who give you the most trouble they are the ones who are calling out with the greatest intensity to please behold me anew. Please behold the Christ of me.

So if you will do just this simple exercise of just clearing the vision and then holding the inner vision, even if the eyes are open you can go within as the eyes are open beholding their energy and loving that energy.

For indeed you can love energy. You don't have to worry about judging it. It is sometimes easier to love energy than it is to love what you see as the person. Love that energy because it is divine, it is of the Father. And then to see that energy as whole and perfect creation of the Father. To see it as golden white light imbued if you will, with a bit of the rosy pink around it. I know you like that color. Some of the green tones if you want to. Throw in some of the purest blue too, if you want to.

In other words, allow your love, your peace to envelope all of their light and you will find yourself in a different space. You will find yourself with a different image of who you are and what is going on. You cannot help but be transformed by that simple exercise.

Now I share that with you as my masters shared that with me. It is something that I shared with the small groupings of ones who came to me. It was an advanced teaching and you say, "But Jeshua, it's so simple." The advanced teachings are the ones that bring you to that place of simplicity.

The other teachings that you have, they lead you on a great chase which in time will bring you to simplicity. Now, have you got it?

You clear the vision easily, no effort. You go within to see that one's energy. You allow your light and your love to envelope that energy, to blend with it. You feel a peace that transcends the knowing of the world and you come away from it transformed yourself.

For in truth what you do in that moment is to touch your own divinity. That place of divinity that the ego has said you have lost. But you have never lost it. You would not be here alive, expressing, experiencing if you were not divine.

That is my message to you in this evening. That indeed my lifetime it was as your life. That lifetime it was a sacred lifetime which we shared together. This lifetime is a sacred lifetime which we share together for I am not separate from you. You know my presence well. That lifetime indeed it is ongoing. It is this lifetime.

These days they are the same as the days in which we journeyed together and other lifetimes in between that lifetime which is so famous, we have journeyed together.

Your reason for being it is the same as my reason for being. Your reason for being here is the same as my reason for being here in that lifetime and now. It is to come unto the place of holy atonement. I and the Father are one. I am God. Be still, clear the vision. Be still and know that I am God.

So be it.
