

Y2K: A Time For Masters

1999-04-09

Beloved & holy etc.

Great surprises to the evening etc.

Indeed you have much going on in your world that brings to the awakened mind the realization of brothers and sisters across the face of our holy Mother the Earth, and what is happening in their lives. (Directed to the war in Kosovo and our oneness with them)

The last time we met in this way we spoke of what is very much on your minds and in your consciousness, the collective consciousness as you are approaching a new millennium. We spoke of your Y2K which has become quite a buzz word in your society and we spoke of what that will mean for you and what your purpose is, how it will be for you and how you will be in it.

Your Y2K is a most wonderful catalyst. It is a time, a turning of an age where you have decreed that it will be and is a turning of an age. These times that you are living in right now, these are the end times and praise be to the holy Child that these are the end times. It will be the end of the belief in separation and so you will see all around you as you are already seeing, much of duality, acts of love and acts from fear. You will see it in great intensity.

As you approach the new millennium which you have decreed is going to be a turning point and indeed it will be, already it is. It has its influence upon you already for it is within your consciousness. As you approach the new millennium you are going to see more and more of the intensity of the polarity being acted out.

You as masters, know how to discipline yourself. You know how to choose to set priorities. You have lived many lifetimes in discipline where you learned early on that the way to peace within yourself was through discipline.

Now you didn't start out the lifetime, any lifetimes in great discipline. You started out as a most spontaneous child who was all over the road trying everything, living in the moment. Finding out what happens if I do such and such? What happens if I choose such and such? But early on you remembered that there is peace within discipline and you know how to keep your mind stayed on what is important, on what is good and true and holy. You are being called upon now to remember the master which you are and to remember the discipline which is not difficult, but the discipline of choosing for the good, the true and the holy. You are going to have opportunity to see much of duality in your world.

Now in truth this is not something new. Every lifetime has brought before you the effects born from the belief in separation, born of the belief in duality. Every lifetime has brought you within this point of focus, this reality has brought you the effects, the results of the belief in duality so that you have lived with what you have seen as good and evil over and over and over. This lifetime it is again being repeated. This lifetime is a review, a re-looking at what you have seen and known and experienced other times.

You are being given a choice once again to remember who you are and to come up higher in your perspective of looking at what is going to be presented to you. Your Y2K is going to be a time for masters.

Now for a long, long, long time, many lifetimes as you have held others above you and you have said that they are masters and you have worshiped them. You have worshiped ones unseen as masters. Even in this day and time you go to listen to them and you have worshiped the ones who are activating bodies and you have said, "They know more than I do. They are the masters. I will sit at their feet. I will learn from them. I will do exactly what they tell me to do because they must know more than I do."

But I say unto you in this evening, it is time now to claim your own mastery. It is time for you now to remember who you are for you are the master. You are walking this plane incarnate, yes. You are the master who has decreed that you will come one more time unto this plane of reality to bring your light here and you will let that light shine and you will remember and you will live in joy. Even though all around you may be in a certain state of suggesting that is falling apart and that it is unjoyful.

Your Y2K is going to bring for you a time of opportunity, a time for master. The master of you, you to come forth and to live as a master. Now what does it mean to live as a master? It means first of all to take that deep breath. It means whenever you are faced with any happening, to remember to breathe. To take a deep breath and allow yourself the space of that deep breath to choose anew.

It means to behold, it means to stand back a degree and to behold what is happening. It means to remember that there is a holiness about everything that happens and it means to look for that holiness. It means to choose to live in the dwelling place of the most High. To choose to live from the higher perspective and to speak that truth to others.

Long enough you have kept your truth to yourself. Long enough you have feared saying that perhaps there could be something good to life. Perhaps there could be hope. Perhaps there was good purpose to life. Perhaps, just perhaps there was something to laugh about. Others have been in sorrow, other have been saying, "Oh, I expect the worse to happen. You know it's going to be terrible. It always is terrible. I'm expecting the worst. You'd better prepare for the worst." And long enough you have kept your silence. Now you are beginning to say, "Well, yes, but I believe in good." And then of course they say, "How can you believe in good. Look to the right. Look to the left. Look at what's happening." And you say, "But I believe that there is a purpose. I believe in the highest and best."

To live as the master means to speak your truth. Now it doesn't mean that you have to go stand on the street corner with your holy scriptures and hold them up in the air and say that these are the end times and you'd better prepare yourself. No, you have seen enough of that.

But to speak your truth means to live it. It means to live with hope. It means to live believing in the best of the collective and the best of the individual, each one whom you meet. Even if they give you a hard time. Even if they come right to your doorstep and they want to give you a load of manure. You thank them for the gift.

Being the master and living your truth means to have a new perspective on life, to be born again, if you will. To be born anew into the Christ of you. If one's will ask of you, "Are you born again?" You can say, "Yes, I am born again into the remembrance of the Christ of me." And live as the Christ. Don't put it outside of you. Don't say it has to be one who lived 2,000 years ago or 5,000 or 35,000 years ago or whatever. But the Christ lives right now, right here as the highest and best of you, as the master of you.

And Y2K and the process that is already happening, it is calling forth the masters. Now in truth everyone who is activating a body upon our holy mother the earth, is a master. Not all are living in remembrance of that. In time all will awaken and remember, "Ah ha, I am the one who created this world and all of the challenges and all of the good times." And there will be great, great laughter in that realization.

You are the masters now who stand upon the threshold of that realization and there are times in your everyday moments when you find yourself laughing at yourself and at thoughts that are new, perceptions that are new, revelations, ah ha's. Revelations that come where they were not a moment previous and you find yourself laughing. Laughing at self and laughing with self. And you find that you are remembering the master which you are.

This is a time already in process for indeed it is not going to be a certain magic that you have to wait for the turning of the clock and the new millennium for that magic to happen. The process is already happening. Your new millennium is very much within the consciousness and all again of the possible problems you see duality and again all of the exciting prospects of a new beginning, a new millennium is already here within your consciousness. It is already being touted by your media everywhere you turn. Your antennae are bringing you messages of a new time.

Today Beloved Elder has been speaking, he has heard it on your media that this is a most opportune time for bringing forth the first incarnate body -- baby you know it as -- of the new millennium. Your media has been saying that this is the most opportune evening if ones want to bring forth the new incarnation of the new millennium baby. So those of you who are so inclined, have fun.

But indeed already the new millennium baby has been birthed. I speak here not of the incarnate one, not the body, but the baby in the consciousness. Already the birthing has been brought forth for you have much within the collective consciousness that has gone through and is still to some extent is still going through the labor, the birthing pains. The consciousness is undergoing much of the travail of choice and in truth that birthing process it will continue.

Your Y2K is a most magical catalyst. It is working its magic already. Are you going to be equal to it, are you going to have within you what you need to meet the new millennium? Are you going to have within you the master that is called forth? Well I ask of you, it is a question.

Yes. Sure enough.

Sure enough, of course. That is why you are on this path. That is why, if you will receive it, you have all of this lifetime been awakening. That is why you have been seeking, reading, studying, speaking with others, praying, meditating, asking for answers. The master of you, you is alive and well and has been growing stronger day by day for you have been strengthening that master throughout this lifetime.

You have known the fire of doubt. You have known the testing. You have known the challenges where the ego has said to you, "Look, you thought you were so smart. Why, if you are so smart why did you bring that upon yourself? If you had been as smart as you say you are, as wise, as divine, as holy surely you wouldn't have gotten into this pickle." That's what the ego is very fond of saying.

But in truth all of the pickles that you have put yourself into have been for the divine purpose of knowing your strength, your creativity and your holiness. All of the pickles have been opportunities to look a bit further, a bit deeper and to choose anew. The most horrendous pickles have been the ones that have brought the greatest gifts.

You will find that there will be opportunity to be pickled in the months that come now before your new millennium and also in the time after the turning of the age. For there will not be upon the stroke of midnight that magical hour, there will not be a great enlightenment where everything changes. There will not be a great disaster either. There will be revelation, yes. Each and everyone of you will have revelation at the stroke of midnight and on the first day of the new millennium and it will be wonderful.

And the most wonderful revelation will be, "Ah ha, this is the day that the Lord hath made. I am alive in another day. Life goes on and life is good." There will be revelation.

You are decreeing an acceleration of time, a telescoping if you will, where you are bringing it in closer and closer. You are finding more and more that you are running out of time and in truth that is what you are doing. You are running out of time. You are running into the remembrance of eternity and beyond. And you are having to more and more take that deep breath and claim the space of eternity rather than get caught up in the constriction of not enough time.

For you have lived in that space of constriction and felt yourself squeezed and squeezed until there wasn't any joy and when you have come to a certain place where it has hurt enough and you have stopped and you have taken a deep breath and you have said, "Surely there is another way." With that deep breath you have allowed yourself to expand into the truth of eternity.

You are finding that in what you have left now less than your nine months to the new millennium, that there is going to be even more of an acceleration of the perception and experience of time. Along with that, as you still believe in the duality, along with that there is going to be more and more of the perception and the experience of non-time. And it is going to feel, already you are experiencing some of it, it is going to feel most strange, most weird. I hear that word around. It is going to feel unsettling because part of you is going to be saying, "It really doesn't matter I have all of eternity. I can breathe and I can be in joy." And the other part of you is going to say, "You had better hurry up and get that assignment done because if you don't you know what is going to happen? You know that job thing your are supposed to have done yesterday? Well, all of everything you don't want is going to come crashing down on top of you if you don't have it done." And so you are going to find yourself living in two worlds. Already you have been experiencing some of that and it feels strange. But the master knows how to live in two worlds. The master knows how to be the beholder and to live from the space of peace and more and more you are going to be called upon to choose to live as the master.

More and more you are going to be called upon to live in peace and love and to choose for the truth that you know and to ask for more truth to be revealed and to claim it. To take it first on faith and then you will know.

For as you are here in this evening and for those of you within the sound of my voice, already in this moment you have questions that you grapple with. Questions of what decision to make? Where should I go? What should I do? What is best for me and for the ones I am responsible for and for the ones I care about? How is it going to work out? Already you live in two worlds and you can be caught in the one world which feels most constrictive or you can live as the master and behold the drama, behold all of the divine dance that is happening, the relationships knowing that you are active in the world that you behold and yet apart from it.

To the ego it is unsettling and it will have many questions that it will throw up for you. Your job as the master is to choose for eternity. It is to choose for peace. It is to choose for space for a new perspective. Long enough you have lived with habitual reaction where you found yourself faced with a dilemma and immediately you reacted to it out of habit. Long enough you have done that and you have eaten the fruits of that choice.

Y2K and the years that come after that call forth the master. Not because they are going to be times of doom, but because they are times of awakening, times to celebrate for you may call it all good. That is what the master does.

The master sits with whatever happens, watches it, does not judge. The master loves and beholds everyone as himself/herself. The master knows that whoever is going through an experience there he/she goes as well. There is no separation. The master reaches out figuratively and literally and extends what help is possible and called for and then the master breathes and abides in peace until the next experience is called for.

Not rushing about as has been the habit so often, but lives in peace and the space of peace. The master speaks words of peace, of healing, of hope, of encouragement. The master surrounds himself/herself with what is good and true and beautiful and uplifting and gives that beauty and that upliftment to whoever comes into his/her presence.

I would say to you to cultivate beauty. To put into your living space something everyday of beauty and to gaze upon it. To breathe the aroma of beauty. To gift to yourself the most exquisite treasure upon this plane and to breathe deeply of that beauty so that you know it well and then you can give it, as you know it you can give it to others.

These are times when the brothers and sisters are calling out for beauty, for hope, for love, for encouragement, for words that tell them of their value. For so long humanity has lived in a space of not valuing self and not remembering the Self -- with a capital "S". That as you will live in the space of truth and remember the Self, the higher Self, the one Self -- with a capital "S" -- and you live in the joy and beauty of that Self, as you live in that space you are able then to give it to others, to give them hope, to open a door, a window for them. Maybe just a crack, as much as they are able to see.

These are times now, they are choice times, times of choice. You have decreed that you will remember who you are. You have decreed that you will remember the master which you are. I will not say that you should, that you must, that you ought for it is beyond what I would say. It is what you have already said. It is what you have already decreed that this life will be about.

You will walk in the remembrance of the master which you are. You will speak from the wisdom of the master and if the wisdom is not there right away, you will breathe and you will ask and it will surprise you perhaps that the wisdom will come. You will speak words of comfort for there is a great cry from humanity at this time for comfort.

You see it all around you. It doesn't have to be half way around the sphere of our holy Mother the earth, yes, there is a great need for comfort there, but you see it in your workplace, you see it in your relationships, you see it in your places of consumer, the stores where you go to buy, purchase things. You see it everywhere you turn. Ones who are wanting comfort and are afraid to ask for it. They don't believe that it could be possible that anyone would give them comfort and so they act with great armor and they say, "I will act this way, so terrible that no one, no one will get inside of my shell. No one will penetrate my defense." And yet what they want the most is to know comfort and to know someone else within that shell to please come in and love me.

You will speak words of comfort. You will speak words of encouragement. You will look for the good in everyone. You will look for the good in every system, every world system. Now that can be a bit of a challenge at first, but you will look for the gifting in it and you will see how every system even though it may not seem to be just, loving, even humanitarian. Every system serves the atonement.

In truth the most atrocious decisions and acts, as you would judge them by the world, are the greatest catalysts for the atonement. For sometimes brothers and sisters, you even, have to be right up against the brick wall before you make choice to say, "Surely there is something else besides a brick wall." And you begin to look up and you see the light above the brick wall. Or you look down and you see the flower that grows right at the edge of the brick wall.

Sometimes it takes an intense drama. You as the master, you will breathe and you will look for the divinity in every process, in every system, in every brother and sister, in every choice that they make and you will bless everything that you see because the master understands that everything is in divine order and serves the atonement. It serves that place of remembrance of the one holy Child come once again into this plane, this most beautiful reality and you will look, as the master you will look for the beauty and you will live in that space of beauty because you are beautiful. You will see the beauty in yourself. You will see the beauty in others and it will transform how you view Y2K and the years of your new millennium.

The master beholds. The master abides. The master believes in truth, in goodness, in beauty and in holiness. And abiding in that space the master then remembers, "I am that which has brought forth all that I behold and I know it to be good."

So be it.
