

The New Consciousness

January 2006

Beloved friends. Peace be with you. I am the one known as Joseph, earthly father to the one you have known as Jeshua, Yeshua, Jesus. I have waited for you.

It is the desire of every realized master to give to other ones that which they are seeking, to facilitate the awakening, to facilitate healing. In my lifetime I was known as a carpenter and I loved to work with the wood. But another aspect of my life in the Essene community was with healing. For I knew the power of the Christ energy, having been raised in the essene community from the time that I was very small. I studied with my teachers, where there was a sharing of the revelations from ancient times. And much of it had to do with the divinity of Oneness, the divinity of the Christ in expression.

My teachers were, as truly your teachers are in this day and time, great friends. There was nothing that they would not share with me, and I did ask many questions. As the small one, growing taller, I had many questions. And many times - as I later would pass this information, message, on to my son, Yeshua - many times I was told to sit in silence, to sit by flowing water, and to contemplate the inner knowing.

To be in the flow of life, it is to be as the stream, the flowing water, to go with each moment and to be in celebration of it. And as you find the joy in life, as you come truly alive in that joy, you find the healing that you have been seeking. That is what I told to my friends and neighbors in the villages where we lived. I spoke unto them, for there were many who would come to me for healing. And I spoke unto them to sit by flowing water and to have revelation of healing in the flow of the water, or to sit in the flowing water and to feel that dynamic energy.

Ritual Cleansing

There was a ritual that we observed in the community every day: it was the cleansing, the ritual washing, to stand in flowing water, such as you do in this day and time with what is called your shower. And this was a ritual that we practiced every day. It was cleansing for the body. It was refreshing, as your showers are in this day and time, but we also acknowledged the deeper symbolism of it, the cleansing of the old particles of belief that we had, perhaps, given ourselves over to in that day, a washing away of old thoughts, old feelings, some of the accumulation of rubbish, the same as you would wash off the filth from the skin. It was a cleansing and a newness to go forth after the ritual washing. It was symbolic as well as physical. Remember that as you take your showers. It is not just to cleanse the body, which, as I have said, is most refreshing. It is very good, and your technology has given you to the ease of having the flowing water right in the dwelling place. You do not have to seek out the waterfall. And, in truth, our community also knew the technology of having the running water.

Allow the shower, the bath, to be both physical and also soul cleansing. For you are moving into a new awareness, moving through 4th and 5th dimensional awareness. And when one comes to 5th dimensional awareness, one leaves behind the baggage and particles of judgment of 3rd dimensional thinking. One realizes that which he/she is: the master, truly, that you are.

When one moves into 5th dimensional consciousness, one does not deny the reality, again lower case "r," of 3rd dimensional thinking, but one recognizes the interplay of all the energies as they work together to bring the collective to the place of atonement. This was something that was written about in the ancient texts. It was something that I read about, studied and copied. Sometimes I found it to be a bit tedious. Other times I found it to be exciting. For there would be ideas in the writings that would spark a train of thought, and off I would go to see where it would lead me, and it lead to new revelations that later were written about. And some of those writings you still have extant in this day and time.

Ancient Scrolls

And there are some of your scholars who can read those scrolls and interpret them, not exactly as we wrote them. For the interpretation in this day and time is colored by the belief system in this day and time. But there is a movement, as you are moving through 4th dimensional intuitive understanding to 5th dimensional realization of the Christ, the master, so there will come a time when the scholars—who now, in truth, are ones who helped write those scrolls, helped preserve them, and are now going back and discovering with great enthusiasm that which they have written or that which they helped preserve, and reading them from the perspective of this point of understanding—they will come to understand the deeper meanings as well.

Now, not all of Truth is contained in the scrolls, but the scrolls do hold clues, much of revelation, and it is still with you because you have ordained that those remnants will be with you to remind you, such as when you are playing detective, you have certain clues that are as the bread crumbs in one of your fables, and you follow one bread crumb, etc., on your journey of revelation and remembrance.

You will hear more about the scrolls and what is written, has been written, in those scrolls, and there will be other books which will come to light that will explain even more, because you are now asking, wanting to know the ancient wisdom.

Throughout time, as you understand linear time, there have been many cycles where ones have moved through 1st, 2nd, 3rd dimensional awareness into the 4th and 5th dimensional where there is the realization of the master. And the masters then have chosen to either stay in that consciousness, not carnate, or to come in body once again to serve. That is what you have chosen to do. You are masters who have known in the cycle of things 5th dimensional awareness. You have known the Christ of you; you have adored the Christ of you. And you have been very happy in that dimension of consciousness. But you have chosen to come once again to serve the brothers and sisters and to temporarily walk amongst them in a state of semi-forgetfulness to be able to speak with them, to be able to awaken to that which is already awakened within you, and to play the dramas and to bring about the healing.

When you come to the realization that "I am that which I am; I am all; I am the extension of the one Creator, the Father, Mother, All That Is, come into this point of reality," when you grasp, really grasp that and realize it - make it real in your understanding that "I am Life principle in expression" - everything around you changes. Your perception of relationship changes. You come to the place where it does not matter what the other one chooses to do, because you do not need another one. You are full, complete, as you stand right now as the master which you are. You may desire to give love, and you will desire to give love because that is what a master does; a master allows the divine love of the beholder to flow through him or her, but you do not need to, and will not, look upon relationships in the 3rd dimensional perspective.

Divine Desire To Give Love

So if you are in a relationship, and all of you are, with self or with other ones, begin to recognize that you do not need; in truth, never have you needed another one in order to make you whole. The need, the feeling of need, comes from the place of a divine desire to give love, but as the world has interpreted it, it has gotten turned around backwards, so that ones feel that they must receive love in order to give love, but that is not true. Love flows freely, with no conditions. Love is always given. Whether you are together in a relationship, or whether you are separated by miles, you can still love. The heart cannot be broken. The heart can only love.

It is the desire for every realized master – in other words, everyone who has come to the 5th dimensional awareness as the master – to–it is almost contagious–to want to share love with other ones; to say, "There is nothing wrong in the adventure that you choose, that you are expressing and experiencing, nothing wrong with it at all. It is for the sheer joy of having that experience and coming truly, truly alive in it, and coming to that place where you know the freedom of the soul."

Every realized master is a fountain of love, wanting to pour it forth upon those who will receive it.

And as you come alive in that realization, you find that you are in a place where everything makes sense. Even that which a moment ago could have been a question, you behold in a different way, and you know that it does not matter what another one chooses to do or to say or where they choose to go, you are whole. And you go forth easily, lightly, giving forth love, because no one can stop your love. And there is great power in that. And you find that then you become very busy giving forth that love, because you cannot hold it back. You have to give it. It is as a flow of the stream of divinity, the flow of the stream of beingness that has to be expressed.

And I say to you, you are bringing forth new heavenly bodies that are being written about even now, in sort of what you would call the prophecy, that will come to be seen with the physical eyes. And there is going to be some consternation among brothers and sisters. For some of you it is going to be a heralding of new light, an awakening, if you will, a time of celebration, a time of new sun. And not only the sun, as you understand physical light, but the awakening of the sun of divinity, yes, the 5th dimensional.

That which you see in the outer is speaking to you of what is happening in the inner. You are in a most exciting place where separated ego will bring to you the choices whether to be in excitement about these new things that are being prophesied, or whether to be in fear.

Space brothers? Sisters? Some say, "Welcome." Others say, "It's about time you got here." Others say, "Oh, no, I'm not sure. Maybe we'd better put this off for awhile yet." Separated ego brings you the possibilities, and how you look upon them, that is up to you. But sooner or later, everything on the silver platter is going to be dealt with, because you want to. It is as a smorgasbord. You want to know, "What does this taste like? What does that taste like?" And some of the things you like, and you say, "More, I want more of that." Some of the things you taste and you say, "No, I'm complete with that."

Fifth dimensional awareness is where you realize Who you are, how whole you are, and how your purpose is to give love. Not to judge past occurrences, not to worry about future, but to give love. It does not even mean that you have to be in the same proximity with someone. You can be, or not. But your purpose is to give love wherever you go, physically, mentally, emotionally.

Just Being

Fifth dimensional awareness is where you realize how happy you are just being, just being the expression of the divine and celebrating the Child, the innocent child, loving that which you have to give, and knowing that which you have to give is enough. Fifth dimensional awareness does not know lack of anything. That is not its focus.

As you are living from the place of the 5th dimensional awareness, knowing that all works together for the atonement, you come to a place of celebrating even that which the world would judge to be a tragedy, negative, wrong, a detour. You come to celebrate it as an expression of the creativity of the Adventurer. And that is what you are: great masters who have chosen to adventure once again in 3rd dimensional thinking and perspective and to suffer the slings and arrows of limited belief systems – for awhile, until you shake yourself loose from it. You are whole, complete, and you are loved, greatly, greatly loved. Because you are that love. You are in the flow of that love. You are the journey of the stream. The drop of water in the stream does not judge itself, does not judge the other drops of water. It goes with the flow of the energy, the Christ energy.

That is my message to you. Every realized master desires to give to you the key of knowing your own realization, your own healing. It is a remembrance of the wholeness that you are. You are on the cusp of realizing who you are, and moving through the intuitive 4th dimension to the place of 5th dimensional perspective and awareness, and I welcome you there. We serve together. Peace be with you.

So be it.
