

The Christ of You - Part 3

2023-06-03

You have a gift to share. Each and every one of you, you have a gift that you took ownership of before the birthing and said "I am going to share this with others whether they want it or not." Because there are going to be ones that are going to come into your sphere of influence, who say, "Oh, she's crazy. She believes in the good of life. And look at what happened to her. She's been orphaned. She's been in an automobile accident. She's had X, Y and Z happen to her. If I had that happen to me..." And they go on in great dramatization of it. And yet they see the smile on your face. They see that you are actually healthy in this lifetime. "Huh? How can he/she be happy in this lifetime? Look at how poor she is. She doesn't have a whole lot of money. Look at how incapacitated physically she is. She has to have the walking sticks to be able to walk. And yet she's happy. How can she be happy?" And it gets one to thinking, to expanding the understanding the vista of life and the gifts in it. And sometimes, most often, in fact, the gifts come when you're least expecting them. And you look at them, "Where does that come from? Hey, I see things differently now." Have you ever said that? Of course you have. Because now, there's another aspect that you hadn't taken into account before. And now you see, "Oh, okay. It has meaning it has purpose. That's what that was all about!" Sometimes it takes a whole lifetime. Sometimes it will take more than one lifetime. Have patience. This is one thing I have said over and over to one: Patience, my dear. Have patience.

It is a quality that will serve you well, Breathe. Have patience. For, in essence, everything, everything that you call reality, even lowercase "r", has the gift in it of joy. You may have to really search for it. You have to maybe put aside old teachings and say, "Oh, I see that differently. I was taught, my parents said, all of my friends said, that X, Y and Z is wrong. And that I would suffer from believing it." "I see things differently now." And that is the beginning of joy.

Because in truth, as you are birthed, even into physicality, there is a gifting that comes with you. And it is the gift of joy, a lifetime of possibility of joy. And sometimes you have found it. Sometimes it has come right up in your face, you say, "Hey, I feel so good. I'm glad that happened." Other times you're said, "I don't think I see any joy in that." And yet, there is always - hear this well - an essence of joy in every situation. Even if it is just you arising to the occasion, to say to the other one, "It is okay. This too shall pass." And you know that from your own experience, that yes, you could be in the depths of despair, the depths of thinking, "There's no good in the world. Nobody is going to love me. Nothing is ever going to go right." And then someone comes along and says to you, "Hey, you know, I really like you. Every time you open your mouth, you say a piece of, of wisdom that uplifts me." And you say, "Huh? Where does that come from?" And you question.

But it is you. Because there is much more to you than what you have acknowledged heretofore. And you would say, "But Jeshua I am 93 years old. I think I have been there, done that, seen everything. And a lot of it was a mess." Have patience. In your 94th year, you are going to come alive. "What?" It can be, and will be, true, as you allow it to be. You will come forth and you will say "Life is good. I have a friend; I am a friend."

When you move from that place of "I have" to the place where "I am", everything takes on a new light. You have been there; you have felt this. No one escapes from life without knowing the light that can be in the lifetime. No one will escape into the darkness and stay there forever. Hear that well. You are the light. You bring your light to every situation. And if it is with a smile on the face that says "Well, I'm play acting; I don't really feel this happy." Play act! Bring it forth. Allow others to feel the upliftment of the smile. A little humorous story perhaps. All of you, hear me well. I did this and it works.

Have a story that you can share with one who may be feeling that there is no good in a lifetime. Why keep on breathing? There are ones who are feeling that they have been there done this, everything, and there has been no joy. And they're wondering, "Why was I told before the incarnation that there would be joy and happiness: I just haven't seen it." There's your clue. You have not seen it. And it has been all around you, in opportunity, all the time. If - we have said this many times - If you want the gift of love, give it. If you want the gift of friendship, give it. If you want the knowing that life is good, live it. Live it with that knowing that, "Yes, I am not here by accident and no one in the incarnation is here by accident. "Oh, yes, Jeshua, I didn't know what I was asking for." Well, play act for the first act of the whole play. Take on a role. Know that, "Okay, I'm just play acting." And after a while it will become second nature. And then first nature. And you will say, "You know, that's kinda fun. I was with a group of friends. And I said something funny. And I didn't know it was funny. But they all started laughing. And then I looked at it again. And I understood where they were coming from. And yes, it was humorous. And yes, Ha, how did I know that?" Accept it. Be open to it. Live life with a love of life. For truly, it has been a gift that you give to yourself. It is a gift to run in the fields. It is a gift to run into the first wave of the ocean. Know you how that feels? And if you don't, I suggest you try it. Look at that vast ocean, it's like, Oh, my goodness. And then get the toes wet. And then perhaps up to the knee. "Oh, but Jeshua it's gonna knock me over." And if it does, what will happen? "Oh, I'll sit down on the sand and I'll get sand in my bottom." So, is that a big deal?

Do not take yourself so seriously! Play as a divine holy child that you are. Everything that you create is there for you to enjoy. To be in joy with it? To know how creative you can be? And that you are? And if you get to the place where you say, "No, no, I created that whole mess. I don't like it." Change it? How do you change it? "I don't know. Jeshua. That's a problem. I don't know how to change it." You put a smile on the face. And others will wonder what is he/she smiling about? "They're a poor beggar. They're there on the street. They don't have a roof over their head. They don't know where their next meal is coming from. How can they smile?" They know that as they smile, it is a gift that they can give to another one. And another one will want the company of that one. The smile, the healing touch. And he will want to give back. Maybe it takes a day or two or a little longer in time, but you are the maker of time. And you can speed it up knowing that you are the one who creates. Being of the essence of the Creator, the divine Creator, which you are, take that deeply within the heart of you, the knowing of you. You are the extension of the Creator, capital "C", otherwise you would not have life. If you are the extension of the Creator and you're creating your life as you go along, change it! Put a smile on the face and others will come up to you and they wonder "What are you smiling at? What is there something to be happy about?" And you share with them. You share your friendship with them. If they are needing a meal, you take them and you buy them a meal or prepare a meal in your home for them. Or if they are looking for the meal of affirmation, in other words, "Yes, you are really worthwhile. You are a divine human being." You may not put it in those words, but you say to them, "You have qualities, abilities that we need."

"I don't have anything, Jeshua." Yes, you do. And you find something to compliment them on to bring to their awareness. You have done this many times. All of you have done this many times. Maybe not in so many words. But you have looked upon another one and smiled. And they have wondered "What is she smiling at? There's nothing good here." And you have smiled and you have said something to them. And you have asked maybe a question of them. "Why does she want to know what I think. I'm not worthy, but she thinks maybe I have an answer." You change someone's life at that moment. You have done this. You have said, "Oh, well, she was just a friend of mine. And she just needed a little affirmation that things are going to be okay." Yes, she needed that. Yes, you gave her that. Yes, you looked at her and you truly saw her, or him. And you saw the essence of possibility - probability. And from that is birthed the reality.

All of you are the magicians, the ones who look a little deeper to find the essence, the Christ essence of each one, the goodness, that is just waiting to be shared. All of you have done this. You have looked upon a friend who seemed to be suffering and seemed to be down on self. And you have said, whether it was conscious or, quite often, not conscious, but it just came out as a truth. And you have pointed out some aspect of them that they maybe hadn't recognized or hadn't taken into account as being worthwhile. Even the smile, that works wonders. And you have seen this. Ones come into your presence, and they are feeling like, "I don't know why I'm still drawing breath. I don't know why I'm still here." And you have smiled at them. And they have done a double take, and thought, "Why does he smile at me?" Is maybe my zipper undone?' or some human thing. They smile at you because they recognize the potential of worth. It is there, perhaps unrecognized. And yet you recognize it. You come up to them, and you start talking with them, smiling. And they think, well, she must think she sees something here that I don't see. "Why is she talking to me? I'm not worth it. But I'll play as perhaps I am." And you get them to play, you get them to moving into that role. And "Hey, you know, it's easy, that role feels really easy. I like the space of being friend of being 'have a smile on the face' happy. Maybe I'll do it again." They have been on a path. And you have said, "Why don't you try this one?" without saying the words. Because you have looked deeper to see the value of the essence of them. Everyone you meet, no matter what the outward appearance is, has the Christ essence. Otherwise, they would not have physicality. They would not have birth. The physicality, in its essence, is a miracle.

Know you, there have been studies made of this, your scientists, how many eggs a female can produce in a lifetime? How many of them are then fertilized to the place where there can be living form? How many of those living forms get birthed into living essence, to be on two feet? Or if it is a beloved pet on four feet, whatever, to take life experience. It is a miracle. And yet, you say, "Oh well."

This right now, this time we spend together is a time of Oneness. It is a time of knowing heart to heart, the essence of goodness. Even if, when you walked in the door of this room, you felt like "Well, you know, I'm 99% good. But there's a part of me that doesn't really know everything. But I put on a good act. I act as if I might know. And if I don't know, I'll say well I know how to find out", which is a good, good way of doing things. If you don't know on the top of the head, I'll find out for you. That is valuable. In other words, you have not stopped. You have not gone along the pathway and then "Oh, I can't go any farther." You have allowed the opening for yourself, and for others, to see that truly life is ongoing, whether it is with physicality, or Spirit, you are always living. " Ah. I didn't know that Jeshua. I thought when the physicality died, that was the end of me." I have news for you, you have played more than you know, as the essence, the ghost, perhaps, who came into the house as a strong breeze and changed everything in the room, you have wanted to know your power. So, you have played. Keep on playing. It does a body good. And the essence as well.

Now, beloved ones, it has been my great joy to meet with you this way to be able to play with the ideas of the mind and to take them to the place of the heart that knows that I AM love, I AM Joy, I AM friendship. I AM. And I am enjoying the outward experience of it. Live every day as if it is a gift to you. Because it is.

Ones of you sometimes will come to the place where there is possibility of going on, as you call it, of exiting the physicality. And you have said, as my beloved friend and teacher said, " No, not yet. I have more things to do yet to bring into the physical manifestation. No!" And your word is law. "Wow, Jeshua, I didn't know I was that powerful." Your word, your decision, your knowing of life essence is powerful. You are in charge. "Really, I thought that little pieces of dis-ease within my body were in charge." No. Other way around: You are in charge of them. And if you are not wanting to go along with what seems to be the determination of that pathway, rise up. You are the essence of God, Goddess, All That Is. You are the essence of God, Goddess, All That Is, otherwise you would not be. Take it to heart. Live life!

So be it.
