Jeshua Speaks About: THE ORIGIN AND PURPOSE OF MOTHER EARTH: THE GREAT EXPERIMENT

SEPTEMBER 2020

THE ADVANCED INTENSIVE

Beloved one, allow yourself to take a deep breath. Remember how we have spoken about the energy of the breath, how every time you take the deep breath you allow your Light to shine even more brightly. And as you have been practicing, your Light is coming up in amplitude. It can be measured. It can be seen. And most of all, it can be felt.

Now we are going to play with a vast topic. I know that you have explored parts of holy Mother Earth. I know that you have traveled, visited many different places upon the surface of holy Mother Earth. You have thought about the core of holy Mother Earth, and you have been told that she is a great Light being, quite warm and quite alive.

But have you always been on holy Mother Earth? You have wondered. You have probably thought for a long period in your lifetime that holy Mother Earth and your one lifetime is all there is. But there have been little questions around the edges. You have been wondering, “Who am I, and where am I, and have I always been here, and do I get only one chance at life?”

Well, hopefully, no. You get more than one chance. I see some of you smiling and saying, “Yes, I need that. I need to have more than one life,” and you do. Your question is probably, “Have I always walked the face of our holy Mother Earth?” Not always. Well, if not always, where then? Ah, that is the question.

Allow your mind to expand to take in what could be to others wide-open crazy thoughts that you have adventured on other planets, even other solar systems. Earth thinking is that, “I’ve always been on holy Mother Earth. Where else would I be? I see my feet are planted here; therefore, this is where home is, where I belong.” And yes, it is, meantime.

But the question abides, “Have I always been walking the face of our holy Mother Earth?” and the answer is, “No.” There have been what you would term lifetimes when you have been within holy Mother Earth, within the mountain where you experienced sacred energy and you went to blend your energy with the energy of the mountain. It was a holy space for you. It was called that, and you knew yourself to be holy, because you were in a holy space.

Have you been anywhere besides Earth? You have now some interest in going to the moon, and you send your spaceships out to various other planets in this solar system. Is this solar system the only system? No, your scientists have told you that there are other solar systems, quite a few that you can see in your heavens on a clear evening when the city lights are not too bright, and you can see other

What a wonderful Jeshua Intensive we experienced in July! Thirty people from all over the United States and Canada joined together for a virtual conference on Zoom. There was time for personal conversation with Jeshua, time to experience three powerful afternoon workshops, and evening messages from Jeshua and Mother Mary. Even though we could not do the in-person hugs (always a hallmark of our gatherings), there was time for virtual sharing and making new friendships.

The July Intensive was such a rich time of being together, deepening our understanding of ourselves, our purpose, our future, that we are scheduling another Intensive for October: “2020: Year of the Deep Breath.” Opening night, Sunday, October 18th, followed by Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, October 19th, 20th, 21st, afternoons and evenings, on Zoom. Personal conversations with Jeshua, workshops by outstanding presenters, and evenings with Jeshua and The Holy Family. Make your plans now, and register on our website: www.oakbridgeuniversity.org.

Many thanks to our July Conference Crew: Eva McGinnis, our Mistress of Ceremonies, who kept everyone in order on the Zoom platform (a technical achievement of great magnitude), welcoming each person with Love, muting and unmuting so everyone had a chance to speak and be heard.

constellations. If you have studied them, you can even name some of them and say, "Oh, that is such and such; I read that in a book."

Have you ever been there? A good question to ponder. Have you ever been to another constellation? What is your knowing? What feels true when someone asks that question? Yes, the Pleiades is a very popular one that many of your friends, the ones of like thinking, will claim. "Well, if I did have a lifetime somewhere else besides holy Mother Earth, it could have been the Pleiades. I have at least heard about them."

So you begin to have a little bit of tickle within the mind that says, "What could be beyond the eight-to-five that I do here and beyond what I call my home?" And that opens the pages of a big, big book; a wondrous book. We have often said to you that you are the expression of the one creative One. You are expressing as a certain individual right now. You have a certain name that you claim for yourself as an individual name.

Have you had other lifetimes? Have you always been who you call yourself now? No. Quite a few lifetimes, yes, and quite a few times you have been in the history books. Where do you go when you allow the mind to roam free? "Oh, well, I think about what I have to do on the morrow and about the bed that feels so good." That is all well and good, but you have questions. You wonder, "Where would I go, where would I express? Would I be in a spaceship?"

Have you been in a spaceship? What is your feeling? What is your knowing? Yes, you have. You have not always had this type of lifetime. You have been many projections of the one infinite Source. Now, if Source is infinite and you are a projection of it—and I assure you that you are—how many lifetimes have you had?

You do not have enough fingers and toes to count the lifetimes just upon holy Mother Earth. So if you are an extension of the one creative Principle—and again I assure you that you are—perhaps you have had lifetimes on other planetary bodies.

The next time you have free time, allow the mind to wander and see where it goes. See yourself in your mind's eye as you get quiet. Look at yourself in another lifetime. What did you look like? Did you have two arms, two legs, two feet, one head? I share with you, sometimes in this lifetime you have said, "There's enough that I want to know and understand that I need to have two heads or more for storage about everything that I am learning."

Why do you think there is such popularity for your "science fiction", your books and movies, the dramas? People go to see how Luke Skywalker (note the name) is going to make out, and is Darth Vader going to win, etc.

Why do you think there is such a resonance? You have been there. You have played those roles, and not just in the imagination. What we talk about now you may accept or not. If you feel that, "I need to be grounded, I need to have one life, I need to have one name, one personality; that's all I can handle, Jeshua, I don't want any more," that is okay. But it is not the Truth of your being.

You have been creative ever since infinity was thought of. You have decided that you want to know—enquiring minds want to know—so you have imagined, "What would it be like to be on a spaceship? I've seen some of the dramas, and they were really quite interesting. I could really put myself in those spaces," and for a period of two and a half hours you did just that. You sat there enthralled, looking at yourself as you played certain parts in the drama. You got quite caught up in it, and there was a feeling of resonance that said, "I know that. I don't know how I know it, but I know that, as it would be a remembrance. Ah, that can't be. It's just a story."

Yes, it is a story, and it is your story. And that is why you go and sit in the darkened room and watch all of the action in front of you. At that moment of time, you are not just sitting in the seat watching something. You are allowing the expansion of yourself into the part that you are watching. You get quite caught up in it, and it is okay, because it really truly is your story. You have played those parts.

You have been the spaceship commander. Some of your friends have called you that. "Oh, yes, he's the space commander. I know, he's in outer space somewhere." Ones have laughed, but it has been the truth, because you have been in outer space at the same time as you have allowed yourself to connect with inner space, the inner space which creates. That is where all of the "what if's" and imaginary-turned-true come to be. You get to think about and take the deep breath and say, "Well, perhaps there is more to me beyond just the two legs, the two arms, the mind, the hair, whatever it is doing. Maybe there is more to me." And there is.

You have lived lifetimes on other planetary bodies. You have been the explorer. You have been the historian. You have been the commander. You have been the lowly one who took orders and followed them through. You are the one who read the history of whatever planetary body you were on. You are the one who wrote the history of whatever planetary body you were on, and however the writing was, was the writing as it is now? Of course, not. It was a different kind of writing, but you understood it.

When you were born into this lifetime as the infant and someone showed you a page of handwriting, you looked at it. It was a lot of scribbles and meant nothing. But after a while ones said to you, "Well, when it is written this way or printed in a certain way, it means such and such," and after a while you started to equate the movement of the writing with what it might mean in the outer as an object or as a thought. It was something that you had to learn.

The same with incarnations on other planetary bodies where you have lived. Were those planetary bodies there before you were? You would understand the history and say yes, that they were. But in Truth, they were not there until you thought them into existence.

You see, what I am trying to do is open your mind to the possibility and probability that you are more than what the human existence says that you are. This I discovered after the crucifixion, after I remade the body, after I walked on the road to Emmaus and talked with you; after I traveled all over the face of holy Mother Earth for six hundred years and more, meeting up with you in every part of holy Mother Earth.

You go now to visit various geographical locations. There is history of my having been there, and I was. And when I visited after the crucifixion, that was not the only time or the first time I had been in those parts of holy Mother Earth. I had been there before, so I went back to pay a visit, the same as you sometimes go to certain parts of holy Mother Earth and feel, "Well, I was born somewhere else, but I have history in this area."

So, I did that on holy Mother Earth. Where did I go after those six hundred plus years? I decided I wanted to go visit friends in another solar system, another constellation, as you call it. So with a thought—thoughts are powerful—I went to visit ones I had known before on other planetary bodies; in this solar system, yes, but also some in a galaxy far, far away.

That is why you get so caught up in what is called your science fiction, because it is not exactly science and it is not exactly fiction. It is a clue, something that you have left for yourself to remind you that you are more than just what you see in the human form in this day and time.

You have been the space commander who fashioned drama, the same as you have on holy Mother Earth, the drama of the different geographical areas, the countries you call them, and the different constellations, the different solar systems where you felt you belonged in a certain grouping. And there was competition: “My solar system, my spaceships are bigger and better than yours.” Feel familiar?

You think that it is just a human trait. No, it is part of the energy that wants to be expressed and wants to know, “What can I do, how can I do it, how big can I do it, and is it better than, etc.?” So there came to be competition between various solar systems/constellations, competition of spaceships and adventure, and certain ones going out on an expedition to see what could be conquered, what could be claimed for your solar system, as it was then. I am not speaking of this solar system. I am speaking of what you would now say was far, far away and a long time ago, except that it is not that far away and it is not that long ago.

So you went traveling. You went adventuring. Sometimes you found a really nice place to stay, but there were already beings in those places. You wanted to move in, but there was not always the welcoming. There was sometimes the feeling that there is even now in what you call human feeling of, “This is my territory. Go find yourself another solar system.” So there came to be legendary stories of some wars in the heavens. Did they exist? Yes, they did. Do they still exist? Yes, to some extent.

Then there came to be ones who said, “Look, there’s enough space out here. You can take alpha, I’ll take beta, you take delta, etc. There’s enough space for all of us.” And then there were the ones who said, “No, I want delta. No, I want beta. I want...etc.” So there were clashes which happened.

After a certain measure of time, the ones who tired of the competition came together and said, “Can we not live harmoniously? There’s enough space. And if there isn’t enough space, we can make more space.” What? “Yes, we can create more space.”

“Maybe you can. I don’t know how to make more space.” So you had what you still see as the trait of “mine” and “yours”, and there was quite a consternation in the ones who could see the bigger picture, because there seemed to be enough space even for the most wondrous spaceships to explore.

So you came together in what was called a league of beings, ones who could see past the end of their noses to see that there could be existence, even friendly existence, to share scientific knowledge of how to travel with the speed of thought—yes, you knew how to do that—enough intelligence to live and share from the space of Love—capital “L”.

But there were others who were, as you would call them now on a gradation of scale, you would call them adolescents who wanted to prove something. They wanted to prove that they could be as big and as good and as creative as other ones.

So the ones who were of further thinking got together and said, “Look, let us try a great experiment. Let us take ones from planet A and ones from planet B and ones from C, D, etc. to Z, all the way to the end. Let us find a place for them. We’ll create a place, and we will put some as a beginning pod on that planet in one area, and we’ll take some from another grouping and put them in another space on the planetary body, and we’ll see, as a great experiment, if they can intermingle and be as One.

So, holy Mother Earth was born. Certain indigenous pods were set up from different constellations; not only the ones that you know in this time, but other ones farther out, and holy Mother Earth was seeded with groupings from the different planetary bodies to see how, in time—because you function in time—these would grow and intermingle and live in a peaceable way with each other. It was called, and is still called, the Great Experiment. It is still going on. You have it in front of the face right now within what you call your country, this country of the united—at some times—states; sometimes united, sometimes not so much.

The Great Experiment is still going on, and you volunteered to be part of a grouping. You were seeded here to see if you could work out getting along with each other, and more than that, to be able to see the value of the brothers and sisters as they have come from other planetary bodies far, far away. You are in the midst of a great experiment.

There has come one at this time who volunteered to hasten the project. He is doing a very good job at hastening the project, of bringing right in front of the faces that which has been simmering for a while. It still remains to be seen how and if the Great Experiment will right itself.

So, is this planet, holy Mother Earth, visited by beings from other constellations? Yes, you are being watched. There have been the voices that have said that you are being watched. There have been the voices which have asked, “UFO’s, unidentified objects that go in the heavens, are they watching us?”

And there have been some of the Intelligences from these unidentified flying objects that have come and walked with you and have by mind telepathy been able to converse with some of your scientists to say that, “Yes, you are part of the great experiment. It is ongoing. It has not been completed. Ones are...”—I will jest here, make a joke—“there are certain bets that are being taken as to whether and/or when this experiment is going to come together.”

You with the open hearts and the enquiring minds are part of the experiment of Being. So allow yourself in your free time to think, to ask of self, “I wonder, where have I lived other lifetimes? If I met someone who seemed to be from another planetary body, how would we converse?”

“Well, you know, actually I’ve met some that I’ve said had to be from some other planet, because I just did not understand them, so I think they had to be from somewhere else. In other words, that friend of a friend seemed to be far out, and maybe he was from far out,” and this is true.

You have, as you would term them, the space brothers and sisters—and actually there is a third gender—walking the face of our holy Mother Earth right now, and some of them have learned your language. You see, you are studied. You are a bit like the ones under the microscope. Ones are watching to see, “There’s a pod in a certain part of this geographical area that seems to be open to inviting friends, wanting to know what state you have come from? What’s it like in Illinois? What’s it like in New Hampshire? What’s it like in Texas? What is it like in England?”

So there is information exchanged that you understand, because they speak your language. But more than that, you are being watched to see if the Great Experiment can work to the place of remembering Oneness, saying to a friend who seems a bit out there somewhere—and they probably are—“I understand your feeling about such and such.” Can there be a knowing of Oneness?

Many of you are friendly enough that you entertain the idea that, “Yes, I can understand you. I can understand feelings.” You say, “Well, you must be from a different country,” and they will say, “Oh, yes,” and they will give you a name. You remember it long enough to try to look it up, but you do not always get the spelling quite right.

You are part of a grand experiment. Each of you, as you live in your own little pod, you have ones who seem to be more interested in certain subjects, exploring what you call gardening, the growing of trees, of fruit trees, different kinds of trees. Other ones are more interested in the objects that you see in the sky and being able to study their rhythm. You have other ones with various interests as to, “How can I make a vehicle that goes really, really fast? How can I race it in one of the races? How can I...?” All the different interests that you have, and you know friends who have different interests. It is multi-faceted, and it is fascinating, and you are being watched kindly; not from a place of ones wanting to come in and take over, but watching the Great Experiment.

So when you get into a place where you are now in this country, you are seeing this grouping and that grouping, and seemingly the twain shall never meet and come together peacefully, and yet there is hope in the hearts that this will happen, that there will be a meshing and a coming together, heart to heart, friend to friend. You are part of the Great Experiment. And yes, you are being watched, kindly.

Will there be interference? No. One of the rules that was set up early on was that, yes, you would be watched, as you watch some of your critters and write down history and behavior, and there will be a knowing that is going to be at some point a conclusion, hopefully a grand reunion of ones living from the space of Oneness. But direct interference will not be permitted.

You are, in Truth, well on your way. You are, in truth, setting up for yourself great examples of differences to be understood, allowed, and loved. Is it difficult? Not really, when you come to the place of friendship, when you come to the place of knowing that each one who walks the face of our holy Mother Earth is looking for one thing, searching in different ways, but each one is looking for Love, understanding, and acceptance.

Now, love is an all-encompassing word that is not understood. Everyone is searching for acceptance and value. Everyone comes with a gift. They come, and they come in your circle, and they have for you a gift, even if it is a gift of turmoil, bringing up subjects and things that you wish they would not, such as some of the overabundance of energy that you have seen lately in your cities.

And you say, “Well, can’t this be done more quietly, more peacefully?” You applaud the ones who are protesting the status quo quietly and with their signs that say everything. The ones who are coming at it from a different place, are they from different solar systems, other constellations? In truth, they are.

You have had it said about your nation, this country, this grouping of ones, that it is a melting pot, and it is. But the melting pot is taking place all over the face of our holy Mother Earth. And the grouping is well on its way to making very nutritious soup out of all of the ingredients.

So when someone comes and rubs you the wrong way, say to yourself, “Oh, that one definitely is part of the seasoning to the soup, and without it, it would probably be quite bland.” But that is the seasoning. They come and push you, and they ask the questions. Sometimes they are very noisy about it, and you say, “Hm, turn it down a little bit. Tune it down.”

But what is happening is, you are right in the most delicate place of the soup, and you are mixing it beautifully. Your technology has evolved to the place where it allows the mixing of ingredients in the soup of Being, some parts from different countries seemingly far away; one heart, different origins, different languages, different customs, but a grouping in the one soup. And you welcome them, because you have found and they have found the part that binds you together, the common interests of wanting to be valued, of wanting to open the mind and the heart to express the Christ, the ongoing creativity of the Christ.

In the next six months of your new year you are going to see more and more of the ones so seemingly different coming together in ways that you would not have expected some months/years ago. The pandemic which has affected all of the brothers and sisters on this planet has formed a bond of Oneness, sharing experiences of tragedy and transformation. Count all as good.

So whenever you wake up in the morning and say, “Why am I here? What am I doing with my life?” get you out of bed, go and find a friend and love them, because you are a part of the Great Experiment. And yes, you are being watched, so do your best to be the friend. And in that, you will know the Christ, the Christ of them and the Christ of yourself, and in that you come Home.

So be it.

Blessings and Love to our hard-working tech crew: Bill, Tim, James, and Kimberly, who worked the cameras and recording equipment, managed to not trip over the “vipers” (the cords and wires), and stayed calm in the midst of seeming chaos—“Oh, no, the sound is not working...!”

And thank you, workshop presenters: Eva, Kimberly and Bill, for sharing of your Love and expertise.

Jeshua very much enjoyed the questions/answers and the courage ones brought forth to ask some of the more hidden questions. He has said that this Intensive was one of trusting Love. And miracles happened.

In this year of The Deep Breath, join us for the October Intensive. You will be glad you did! Registration is on our website:

JESHUA Q&A

THE GRAND EXPERIMENT

If we are in a grand experiment, are we all volunteers? Was it our forebears who volunteered us, or our lineage, and do we ever get the knowledge that we are from a certain volunteer group?

Yes. First of all, as you understand, you are your own ancestor, and yes, you did volunteer for this. There was a feeling of affinity to the project, and it was something that you wanted to lend your energy to, so you just came forward and said, you know, “I am willing to go.” So we took certain of the ones who wanted to be part of it, and if ones had second thoughts, then they were allowed to come off of the project. And there have been some who have said, “You know, this is too hard. This is not my true nature. I’m not living my true nature, and I don’t want to see this through.”

Others have said, “My true nature is to be as the glue that holds ones together in an experiment,” so they have—you are still seeing it through. There will come a time when there will be a resolution of the experiment, where it will either be, “Well, this works 80 percent, or this worked 100 percent.” That right now does not look exactly like it’s going to be the resolution, 100 percent.

However, it is something that is being allowed to play out. The groupings were seeded differently, in different areas, but now, because of technology, they are blending with each other, interacting with each other, whereas previously they have been separate and sort of one pot boiling here and one pot boiling there. Now, not only in your country, but all countries on the face of our holy Mother Earth, you are having the same mixture because of the ease of travel.

When you had to travel on foot, you didn't go too far away from your village. When you went on horseback, you could go a bit farther. When you had the sea-faring ships, you could go even farther.. Now with your technology of being able to be on the big bird and fly to another country completely on the other side of holy Mother Earth, there is more of a mixing that is happening. So it remains to be seen how long this will go, and whether there will be 100 percent or some other percentage resolution, or if it will just be something that, "Well, we tried it, and it didn't work very well."

So, is the resolution when we realize our Allness, our Oneness? Is that the resolution?

Yes, that is a very good resolution. It remains to be seen. The space brothers and sisters have done this experiment, put it here as an open-ended experiment; in other words, there has not been a certain say that these will in time all come together or they will cut it off at a certain time. It's still open-ended.

So if it was our space brothers and sisters, assuming that it was an advanced technology, did we have to go back to square one without technology and evolve all over again? Is that part of the equation here?

It has been part of the process, yes.

Would you please tell us what planets were actually involved, not just far away galaxies or constellations, but names that we might know?

Quite a few came from the Pleiades. Quite a few came from Andromeda. Others that have different names that you would not recognize right now. That is why, as I spoke to you earlier this evening, I did not name them, because as the history of all of the universes unfolded, there have been different names.

DISCLOSURE OF THE WATCHERS?

Are we going to have Disclosure of these groups, of the fact that these groups are watching us on a larger scale?

Not too much, no, because most of what you call the general population upon holy Mother Earth is not at a place of being interested or accepting. So, ones such as you who entertain the idea that there's more than just from the top of the head to the bottom of the toes want to know. You have the open minds that say, "Okay, that feels right. I don't have any proof of it. Yeshua can't really give me proof," because I cannot, but I can suggest, and if it resonates and it feels true, then you are at a place where you can accept it.

THE ASCENSION PROCESS

I expect that all of humanity will awaken eventually, but if some choose not to do so during this approaching ascension, do they stay on the planet as the process unfolds, or do they go somewhere else?

This is a process that will cover a good bit of time, so that ones will have opportunity to awaken and to realize, first of all, that they are part of the grand experiment, and to understand that it is a peaceful experiment. There is not going to be intervention. If it takes what seems to be a long time, that is okay. If it seems to come to a warring, then there is going to be war. You've already seen that upon this planet. And it is going to be allowed to take its own time.

There will be—as you would do an experiment in one of your technical laboratories where ones watch the mice and what they want to do and how they do it—a bit elevated from that, but it's still an experiment, and it is for ones who have agreed that they want to hasten the awakening to the place of the Oneness, and they want to value others' traits and gifts that they have and that they bring to the table. So that takes certain lengths of time and patience.

But the younger souls...now, in truth, all souls are the same age, but not all souls have agreed that they want to spend what they understand time to be, being happy. They have wanted to experience hardship. Now, you would say, "Why do they want to do it the hard way?" Well, as you have been—you have done it yourself—I want to know all. I want to know everything; therefore, I am going to live a lifetime that is of hardship in order to know that I've been there, done that, and I'm not going to do it again," type of thing.

So there is allowance, permission, if you will, for free choice. And as we all, as One, are the makers of time, we extend time and we play with time. So as to the question that we've all been around forever, this is true. What makes one old and the other younger?

The old ones have come through hardships and what they would call testing even, and the younger ones have also come through to the place where they say, “Been there, done that; now I just want to know joy.” It is a choice, and it is outside of time, if you can understand that. It is to the place where it is experience outside of time.

THE WATCHERS

How can we know the extraterrestrial places that we have come from and what it is like there?

You can do some research. You can read in some of your books of exploration about some of the different galaxies, some that are just now being discovered, because from this point of existence—holy Mother Earth—you go to what would be the farthest reaches of creativity—you’ll notice I did not say the farthest reaches of space, but creativity, because you can know everything that is within this sphere of creativity, yet as you have a saying in this world, “and there is more”.

So as you get to the edge, there is more, very much the same as it has been within any geographical location where ones have first come and seen the hillside and the mountain and have wondered, “What is on the other side?” And the travel to the top of the hillside, the top of the mountain, and what is in front of them is more.

So it is very much like that with this experiment, to see what can be experienced, what can be you-will-say “healed”, although everything is holy to begin with, and what can be experienced. Is there someone taking note of everything and writing it, as it would be, in a log? Yes. Some of the space brothers who circle in outer space where hopefully they are undetected, because there is a feeling and one of the dictates that we will not interfere with what is happening down here, although there has been some of that that has happened.

So we observe, and you have ones who are taking notes, keeping a great volume, a ledger of what is happening, down to the point where an individual spark of creativity has either felt love or anger at something; that has been noted. (With all the people on Earth?) Yes. (Boy, they have some computer that keeps track of all of us.) Yes, and every little feeling that has come up during the day and how you have come through to the evening when you say your prayers and go to bed and say, “Glad that day is over.” Or, “Gee, I hope I have another day like this one,” and live in joy.

You kind of alluded to our President as possibly having some role in this, and since we all have a role in this, we had a question about, it’s feeling like he’s really destroying our country, he and his followers. Can you give us a bit of perspective on this? He must be from one of the pods.

He is, and he is playing his part very well. He has volunteered to stir the pot. He has volunteered to allow ones to have very decisive feelings about who he is, where he is coming from, who they are, and how they feel about various things. There is not a day that goes by where he does not teach by being as he is perceived.

Now, remember those words, “as he is perceived”, because there are ones who are his “followers” who perceive him in a great shining light. There are others who would say, “Well, we are sort of followers, but not exactly, completely,” and they applaud some of the things he is doing. In other words, you have a whole range of choices and judgments, and then there are ones, of course, who say, “Never,” type of thing.

So he is a great catalyst for ones coming to that point of saying, “This is where I stand. This is how I see what is happening.” Not to say that one is more right than another, but he brings clarity to the ongoing judgments. He volunteered for the part. (And he likes the limelight.) Yes, he likes the limelight. And he is correct that he was the chosen one.

PRIME DIRECTIVE EXCEPTIONS?

Are there other planets or extraterrestrials helping our planet Earth right now? I know you said it’s a prime directive not to interfere, but are there exceptions, or are there ways that, you know, like we say maybe angels are helping us?

Angels can suggest, but angels cannot change things. Angels have a presence of love, and if ones are open to that presence, then changes can happen, but the change happens with the one who is on holy Mother Earth accepting it and being open to it. The angelic presence is always there, but not always acknowledged or accepted.

So, what is the difference between an ET and an angel?

Some are one and the same. (So, is benevolence the difference?) Yes. (And their ability to communicate with us?) Right, and your ability to accept it. (Okay, I guess that was the question of, are there others watching us able to help us if we ask? Does that make a difference, if we ask?) It does make a difference, yes. (So we can be specific about something, like peace on Earth, or peace to a certain region, and they will help reinforce our energy?) They are there to uplift and uphold. They cannot influence to change something. The decision is made by the ones who have the feet upon holy Mother Earth.

What ways can we use to interpret energies or messages that we would consider to be extraterrestrial?

Just be open and be in love, and be able to say, “I feel your presence. Let us meet in love,” because that is the bottom line of the grand experiment. It is to find that bottom line love, of acceptance. “You may have different color skin, you may have a different language, you may have a different way of interpreting, but the essence of you is the same as my essence. It is from the Oneness.” And when ones wake up and realize that, then the experiment will be completed. It may take a while; or not.

Is there nowhere else in the universe where Oneness is experienced among different tribes?

Oh, yes. Some of the ones who you would call space brothers have worked out an understanding of teamwork where there is cooperation and support and love, you would call it; working love. And they are the ones who brought forward this experiment to be able to see, “What works? What is the catalyst for change? And how can I understand that catalyst and perhaps suggest it to some of the more warring factions that still exist?” (So there are warring factions within the universe(s)) Yes, even now. (The Klingons, huh?) Yes. These stories have a basis in truth.

What does it mean, to cut off the experiment? Does that mean ending life as we know it on Earth?

You mean when the experiment is completed? (Yes) There will be great joy in the heavens and an ascension. (All of us get to ascend then.) Right. I imagine there will be a great party.

What is the purpose of the experiment? Is it to know Oneness and love as the only thing that's real? If every group has agreed to be part of it, then there must be an underlying desire to know Oneness.

Yes, there is, and the experiment is to find out what makes the change when it's a catalyst that makes the change. (That makes the change for us to finally see that we are all One.) Exactly, the focus on the commonality, what is common to every expression of life, yes.

Well, I think our present pandemic is certainly taking us a way there.

Yes, that is why I have said that everything serves the atonement, the realization of Oneness. Everything serves.

So, if this is an experiment, but we still have our Creator who is the grand weaver; as you have called him, doesn't that seem like there is a part that's already predestined for us, if he's weaving everything, or is that because no matter what we do, we can't get it wrong?

First of all, there is no “he”. There is no God outside of you. That has been for a long time modeled on human existence, that there would be the powerful ones who would dictate what you could do and what you couldn't do. But in truth, all is possible. All comes from that point of creativity, of being creative, and creating that which is loving and that which is not loving, and seeing how that feels. So ones have already experienced—the ones who came together and said, “Let us see how this can be worked out on a planet which is neutral to begin with and see what brings them together in love, what makes the difference.” So you have the Great Experiment, and you are part of it. (And we've all agreed to it.) Yes. (Or at least our ancestors agreed to it.) Yes. Part of yourself has agreed to it.

Well, I still feel like it's kind of creepy to have people watching us, but...but if we agreed to it, I guess we'll kind of finish it up.

Right, and you do this yourself. That which is watching you seems to be separate from you, because we speak of space brothers and sisters. But in truth, these are aspects of yourself, and it is very much like by evening time and you put the head upon the pillow and say, “Self, this has been a really challenging day. How did I do?” Or you say, “Self, it was really fun today, wasn't it? Let's do this again.” Etc. And you do your own evaluation. So even though it seems that you are being watched by someone who is outside of you, in truth, they are not outside of you. There is nothing outside of you. But that is a concept that is hard to take to the heart and mind, because bodies speak of separation.

How would you describe what we are doing in this grand experiment at this point as compared to maybe other centuries, because how long has this experiment been going on? Since Earth was created?

Yes. I would say that you are doing very well. There are quite a few—relatively large number—quite a few who are tired of the same old, same old; tired of hurting, either physically or mentally, wanting to know resolution, wanting to know Oneness, wanting to know how loved they are, wanting to know the Oneness. So now we are not going to take this to the place of placing a bet, but I would say that you are, as a whole grouping, coming quite close to the healing, that place of waking up and saying, “You are an aspect of me. Wow! The same as would be the facets of a diamond. The diamond is a whole stone, and yet it has all the different facets that reflect the light differently. You have different aspects. I’m really glad you do, because I don’t know anything about computers.”

This has been a grand evening of lots of questions, all of the same truth. It is a grand experiment that you are living and learning from as you walk day by day as the experimenter. So do not worry that you are being watched or being judged. That has come from a long line of being judged as not so good, so you don’t like the idea of being judged. But let me tell you, you are being given top marks for what you are coming through, what you are devising as the awareness of Oneness with your technology. Look at what you are doing. You have ones who are many, many geographical miles away speaking with you in the time now. It may be morning, it may be evening, it may be entirely different circumstances, but you are One, all One asking these questions, because enquiring minds want to know. I bless you in the Christ that you are.

SEEING BOTH SIDES AS ONE

Can you talk more about seeing the value in ones who are so different? I watched a video today taken in a community that started the Ku Klux Klan. A man stood on a corner with a Black Lives Matter sign. People shouted the most hateful things out of the windows of their cars. Where did this grouping come from that hates people of color so violently? Can you suggest how we see value in people who are so hateful?

Again, it is part of the creativity to express the opposite of what you would want to be the norm. As you have seen, there is a broad range of truth—lower case “t”—and a broad range of reality—again, lower case “r”—and ones will be coming from different points within that reality and within what they see truth to be, and expressing it as their bottom line truth.

But in Truth—capital “T”—it allows for everything within the whole space. Where you want to abide is a free choice in every lifetime, every incarnation. So ones choose and experience the result of that choice, and often-times they will come from a place of great energy, whether it be as you see the Christ, the Oneness, speaking, or if it be the opposite, where ones are standing outside and judging and feeling that they are right, and the other ones feel that they are right. It is part of the expression of duality.

What will come in time will be a healing, where the duality comes to be understood and seen as Oneness that allows for differing from. Take Oneness as a sphere, and maybe one on this side and one on that side, seeing things differently, and yet they are part of the whole. This is what is happening when you get ones who are speaking from a different point of view and being quite vociferous about it. They are standing with a perspective of the sphere of the whole from a certain place, and the ones that are over there say, “Never the twain shall meet,” but they do, and then there is healing. It boggles the mind.

It does, when it seems like the hateful attitudes are so deeply entrenched, and yet we know that as children we come in with an openness and we don’t see the differences in one another.

Not all children come in with the openness. There are some children who come in already fearful, already judgmental, already...well, the parents may say that the devil’s got that one. So, based on previous lifetimes, there is much of influence. Not all are little angels.

Can that be changed with the love that is given to them when they are very young?

Yes, that is the whole point. They will push out the sides and they will test, and they will keep pushing and pushing until finally they know that they’ve pushed it as far as they can. And if the loving one is still loving them, then a change happens. Sometimes the one who is loving gives up before they get to that point, but there are many lifetimes to experience.
