Jeshua Speaks about: THE NEW BEATITUDES

JULY 2016

Beloved one, in a time seemingly long ago, it was asked of me, “Rabbi, how does one live the blessed life? How does one live happy in accordance with God?” And I spoke with you what has come to be known in your Scriptures as The Beatitudes: “Blessed are they....” What you have recorded in your Scripture are the notes which several remembered from that discourse and that time.

Beloved friend, I would give unto you this day new beatitudes in a language that is of this time. Today I would speak plainly with you, and I would say to you, first of all,

Blessed are you as you will abide in a place of non-judgment, a place of openness, a place where you acknowledge that you do not know enough to judge, and you ask for the higher understanding. “I will suspend judgment and will allow myself to see through the eyes of the Father; not to see with the human eyes which have been so trained to be reactionary. I will allow myself to be in the space of the Father, Who does not judge. I will just behold.”

Blessed are you as you become again the little child who does not have all of the teaching of the world. Blessed are you as you are spontaneous, questioning, wanting to know, “What is this all about, this life experience? Who are you? Who am I?” Blessed are you, happy are you as you allow yourself to be again the natural child who has not been shaped, constricted, formed to the world, but knows itself to be free, to be the Child of the Father. Blessed are you as you remember the feeling of the little child who knows that he/she is loved of the Father. Become again as the little Child.

Blessed are you as you are willing to be the friend to another. For as you are willing to be a friend to another, you know friendship for yourself. If you desire to have a friend—you have a saying—be a friend. For as you are willing to set aside small self and to look deep within the eyes of another one and to say, “I recognize Who you are,” then you know true friendship, for friends are equals. Friends know each other to be the holy Child of the Father.

Blessed are you as you will give forth compassion. Passion means to feel, to be alive with deep emotion. And to be compassionate means to be with another one in their passion. So as you are willing to experience true compassion, to be at-One with another and to understand their feelings, you also know passion for yourself, and your life comes alive with deeper meaning.

Blessed are you as you acknowledge the Source of your being, as you acknowledge the Source of your prosperity, as you acknowledge the Source of the health of your body. Blessed are you when you acknowledge that the Source is within—the Father, the Life energy, the spirit of you—and will withdraw your

WE ARE SO BLESSED

We are so blessed to have such a large and growing Heart Family who are reading and putting Jeshua’s messages into practice in their lives. It is an ever-expanding Family of like-minded and heart-welcoming people who Walk the Talk of Love and Inclusion. No one is excluded from Jeshua’s love, and we of the Heart Family reach out in love to all our brothers and sisters. With the recent horrific shooting, with the voices of persons in the media spotlight advocating hate and division, with the Bathroom Issue, our voices and loving actions are as the gentle rain falling on parched earth. Thank you for being the Emissaries of Love.

We are so blessed to have a Center, a physical place for Jeshua meetings, at 41 Windmill Lane in Sequim, Washington, and to have a staff of supportive, loving friends who give of their time and expertise to extend Jeshua’s much-needed messages. Thank you for all that you do! Every bit is appreciated and grows. And speaking of growing, the Center is looking for someone to do gardening on our acre and a quarter of land here. If this appeals to you, please call the office or email.

And we are so blessed to be looking forward to the Jeshua Christos Advance in August. Jeshua, Joseph, Mother Mary and perhaps Mary Magdalene will speak in the evenings, worry from the world. For the world will speak to you of lack and of limitation, and you do not feel blessed in that place; you feel hounded on all sides. Blessed are you as you will abide in the dwelling place of your Source.

Blessed are you as you will seek after wisdom, and will allow that wisdom to take you past the beliefs of the world. Blessed, happy, free are you as you are guided by divine wisdom, which does not acquiesce to the limitations of world belief.

Blessed are you as you will seek after Truth. Wisdom will allow you to begin the search for Truth. It allows you to open the door to the on-goingness of Life, and you will understand that the truth of one lifetime is but that: the truth of that lifetime. And the truth of another lifetime is but that, but what runs through all of the lifetimes is the Truth of your being. That Truth is what has allowed you to manifest the experiences and to know the lifetimes. Blessed are you as you will seek after Truth, for you will find it.

Blessed are you as you are willing to live in the Now moment, not worrying about what has been, not judging self for how you could have done something else, could have done it better, should have done it better. Blessed are you as you will live in the Now moment, not worrying about the future. Blessed are you as you will give the future over to the Father, saying, "Father, I know that You are with me now, here in this Now moment, and I know that You will be with me where and whenever I go." Blessed are you, happy are you as you will allow yourself to live in the Now moment, free of the constraints of past and future.

Blessed are you as you will remember and acknowledge the Father's Love. Blessed are you as you will acknowledge here and now, "I am the blessed one, the happy one, the lucky one. How fortunate I am!" Get you up in every morning with that saying. It will transform your day: "I am the lucky one." Lucky not because someone outside of you has decreed you have won a great gamble, but lucky because you are the luck, the Light. Your word lucky is akin to a distant root word, lux, meaning light.

These are your New Beatitudes. Blessed are you as you will meditate upon and live from the space of true blessedness, acknowledging the Father in all that you do. You are His most wonderful and only creation. Blessed are you, Beloved Child.

This message from Jeshua can be found in Chapter 3 of His Volume III in The Personal Christ series. The preceding chapter in Volume III, Chapter 2, is a beautiful dissertation on The Beatitudes as we know them in the Bible. MESSAGE FROM THE COUNCIL OF ONE

through Michael Dybicz

June 16, 2016

The plan of the Christ-head, sometimes referred to as the Council of One, is for the universe and multi-dimensionality to continue, but without the egoic mind... or without duality, fear and the illusion of separation.

This process has begun...rejoice!

Oneness Consciousness will be all... and all will be Love... thus, all will be one with Abba, who is but Love.

Because the Christ created the egoic mind, the Christ must dissolve it in the Light of Oneness and Love... in the Light of Abba.

In regard to the 3rd dimension of Earth, the dissolution of the egoic mind will be done initially on a soul by soul basis. Eventually there will be a cataclysmic shift in the collective consciousness, a wave of Love, if you will, which will engulf the consciousness of the Earth dimension.

Blessings to you all.

JESHUA Q&A

CAN WE RAISE OUR BODIES IF IT'S NOT IN OUR CONTRACT?

You mentioned again that we can raise up our bodies in three days or three hours. We know that's true, but it's not likely to happen if we didn't put that in our pre-birth contracts, is it?

Your pre-birth contract is very broad, and there are certain things that you have said that you want to accomplish in a lifetime. The means by which you do this is a free choice. And as you know very well, the improv comes in quite often. So your pre-birth contract is not so detailed that it would foreclose on something that could be in the present. So yes, you can make changes.

But it's probably not going to be very common.

No, it is not going to be very common. You're not going to see a lot of people laying down the body in the middle of the street and then picking it up again. It would be quite a messy bit to do.

CAUSE AND CURE FOR THROAT CONSTRICTION

I have a niece who is unable to eat solid food, because her throat is constricted. I think the doctor might have mentioned stretching the throat. That seems like a very temporary solution. I'm wondering what in her case is the real cause, and if that cause is general throughout the population for that problem. I really haven't heard of the problem before.

The root of the problem goes back to other lifetimes, in truth, lifetimes when she was starved to death, lifetimes when she was hung by the neck until the breathing stopped. This lifetime there is a very faint memory of that, and there is a bit of tension, stress, constriction around that subconscious thought. It is subconscious. It's not conscious right out here with it. As she will work with the relaxing exercises, as she will move into a place of trusting, trusting everything, no matter whether she can see it or feel it or know it, but just trusting, this so-called problem will go away.

Relaxing the whole body, you mean?

Yes, and specifically the throat, of course. But it has to do right now with the constriction that she feels, the what if? Is this lifetime going to be like some other lifetimes have been, where the rope around the neck was a seeming reality in that lifetime. It is a subconscious thought. It is not conscious. It can be brought to the forefront, but perhaps not yet. It might be a bit overwhelming if it would come about now. So what you might want to advise would be the relaxation exercises that seem like a no-thing, and yet it can work wonders.

Brought to the forefront like through hypnosis, you mean?

Yes.

Okay, and for people in general who have that problem, it would be the same?

It would be the same, yes, because as you will understand, there are many who are walking with the body in this lifetime who have been hung by the neck until the breathing ceased in previous lifetimes, and some of them have brought that trauma into this lifetime into this body.

Okay, it's a good opening, because I think she probably doesn't even know about past lives.

There you go. It could be fun. Tell her it's a bit like the science fiction. She doesn't have to believe it. It still works, even if she doesn't believe in past lifetimes.

Thank you.

TAKING ON THE SUFFERING OF OTHERS

I spend a lot of time in my work involved with people in great distress and suffering and very difficult times. I feel that I can be with them in that and hold that and be present with them, but I don't do very well with my own experience of their suffering, that it's just my own. I'm not sure how to allow that somehow, to honor that, to find a place for that, so I feel that I end up stuck with it. And I feel that it's not really doing me any good, to put it mildly.

First of all, see the blessing in it for them, because everything truly does serve the awakening, even though it may look perfectly terrible, but there is always a blessing in everything. Then know that you are there to give love, and that is all you are there for, is to give love and support. You do not need to take upon yourself all of their drama. That is their clue, the doorway to their awakening. Yours is just to be there and to love them. It is not yours, and so you look at the gift that they are giving themselves.

You can even visualize it as a box with a bow on top of it, and you know that that is theirs. You can be with them in love and support them, but it is not your box. You have to leave it with them. It is their gift. That will help you separate yourself from taking on what they seem to be going through. You can visualize what they are going through as the box with the bow on top of it as the gift that they are giving to themselves, to the place where they recognize that they are not the body, they are not the suffering that they think they are in, that truly in any moment there can be a new thought that comes in and changes everything, a new perspective.

But you are not the one who is orchestrating that. You are only the observer, and you see all of it as the gift, the box, and you let them keep the box; in other words, you don't have to take the box home with you. And know that always I am with you and I support you in the work that you do. Sometimes you will open your mouth and say things that you wonder, "Where did that come from?" That has happened, and it is me. I speak through you sometimes to the other ones as to what they need to hear at that moment.

So know that truly the work that you do, we do together, and that will help lift some of the heavy burden off of the shoulders. We do work together.

Thank you.

MARIJUANA

I'm trying to understand marijuana, like on one hand it's natural, it's growing, it's been put here, but there are so many things they say bad about it, and I'm just kind of curious about it for medical use.

It is a very good herb that has been used many, many lifetimes for the relief of pain and for ones who are trying to find a deeper meaning to life. So it has much of medicinal good use, and even what is termed the recreational use is good as well, because it allows one to expand into what you would call another dimension and understand that you—speaking here as the collective consciousness—are much more than what you have been taught that you are.

You've been taught that you just have certain ideas, and the mind is all important, but this herb that you mention has been used in sacred ceremonies many, many times for the opening up of what is termed the third eye. So it has gotten what you call the bad rap, because ones say, "Well, you are trying to escape life. You should face everything head on." And yet oftentimes ones will use it in order to open up to more.

So it can help in expanding consciousness and not kind of like block it or anything (Oh, no) Oh, well, that's good to know. Not that I'm a big pot smoker, but I have been having some pain, and I'm pretty much allergic to all the painkillers out there. They make me itch. I know that pot is probably what I'd have to turn to if I ever did get in a lot of pain. I don't want it to get in the way of my path, because it's very important to me to go forward.

Right. You will use everything that comes to you in order to go forward. There is not anything that you have set in this lifetime for yourself that is going to hinder the going forward, as you call it, because you want to know, you want to understand, "Who am I? Why am I? And what am I creating?" So you are going to use everything that comes to you for that purpose; not for a purpose that would be hindering, because everything comes as you invite it, and it comes to help you.
