

2010

January 2010

Beloved one, I would speak with you about the new year of your timing. 2010, as you will call it, is an arbitrary reckoning because, as you have seen, there are other calendars and other reckonings, but you are calling it 2010. It is going to be a most wonderful year. Many awakenings. Much of judgment. Old issues are going to come up to be judged and quickly resolved, because you now have the tools: you now have the understandings you did not have in other lifetimes because you were kept within the parameters of what had been taught to you, what your priests and rabbis and what the parents and generations of parents had told you.

But now those parameters have opened up. And yes, you are going to have old issues that are going to come up, but then, as we spoke previously about the measure of mastery, you are going to see that you can quickly surrender and let them go. And, let me say first of all, as you do judgment of any issue, there is no judgment of you. It is an experience; that is all it is.

You can stay in that judgment as long as you want to or as short as you want to; it is just what you are experiencing. You will move on then to love, to love self, and to laugh at self and to say, "Oh, there's that issue again. I know it well. Okay, I'm going to wrestle with it for a few minutes, maybe even an hour, maybe even a whole day or longer. I'm going to wrestle with it until I'm really complete with it. And if it comes up again, I'll wrestle with it again, because how dare it come up again."

But throughout all of that, what you are really saying is, "I am the master. I am going to wrestle with it until I'm done with it." And that is the master speaking. It is not the issue speaking, but it is the master speaking, and it is okay to wrestle with old issues. There is no time limit. Just do what you want to do with the old feelings, and if they do not feel good, then you move on.

The next year in your timing is going to give you opportunity not only to be in judgment of yourself, but to be in judgment of others. Many of your so-called leaders are not leading. They are leading from behind, allowing others to go out and do the hard work while they sit behind the desk and wonder, "Which choice suits my career better than another choice?"

They also are wrestling with their issues, their own issues from this lifetime and other lifetimes. So you can cut them a bit of slack, perhaps not too much, but some. You will have opportunity to watch ones wrestle with their own inner conscience, their own divine knowing of peace and respect, and how they weigh the inner Voice against worldly acclamation and temporal power.

You are going to see some of the leaders waking up and speaking perhaps of unpopular things to speak; to take up issues and to be brave enough to speak against the current tide of what has been.

You are going to see some of your leaders saying things that are not putting their career forward, but yet saying what needs to be said. You have a leader in this geo-political area who came into office a year ago by speaking what the common man wanted to have said. And now you are waiting for him to get it together and start using what energy he can to put forward some of the programs that you want to see happen.

He is a very wise person. He has been a leader in other lifetimes, as well, and he comes to this position with great knowledge. And he is biding his time. He is not being indecisive as some would portray him. He is biding his time to allow some of the pieces to fall into place, to allow some of the ones that he works with to have time to resolve in their own minds and hearts what is important and to work through some of their issues, as well.

By appearances, it looks like he is not really doing that much, but the greatest of masters are the ones who do not tell you how to do something. They show you by being, and that is what he is doing. He is showing great patience. He is listening to everyone, which allows them some clarity as they get a chance to put forward their position and how they feel about various things; he is being as the wise parent or as the master who allows other ones to speak until finally they may come to some clarity about what their true position is and why they feel that position to be right or not right. And it takes awhile to be able to look at issues from different angles.

In this next year you are going to see some conflicts coming up because of that allowance, and you are going to hear a lot of the same old rhetoric, and yet there is going to be a new voice that is going to start to be heard. It began some time ago, and it is going to increase in volume so that not only those of you who want to hear a new voice of respect, but other ones are going to be able to hear it, as well.

You have built into this reality the most wonderful gift of time, and you chafe against it sometimes. There is a process that seemingly stretches on and on. There is a saying in your world that ones like the fast food; they like everything immediately if not yesterday, and so you are expecting instant results--and the expectation is based on a true Reality, capital "R", of remembering instant manifestation. You remember from other times, other realities and other times in this reality, where you would think what you wanted and with the snap of a finger or a reaching out, it would be right there.

However, the rules of the game as they are set right now in this reality are that it is going to be a process, and that takes a little bit longer. But in this next year you are going to see an acceleration of time. Many of you have been feeling that as soon as you get up in the morning, the day is finished and you have not done all of the things you had on your list to do.

This next year is going to be even more accelerated--just what you wanted to hear. However, there is a new twist to it, because you are learning, remembering, how to breathe and step out of reality and allow whatever has to be done in that day to manifest itself.

In your next year, what you have seen in the financial arena is going to continue to accelerate and to look, by all appearances, not that great. However, it is a shake-up that has been long in coming and necessary. Your banks are not going to fail. You are not going to have a cataclysmic all-of-a-sudden closing of the banks, where your money is no longer good.

But the banks are going to continue to change. The ones that have not been operating with the best of intentions--and that includes many--are going to partner with other ones, merge, and there is going to be more oversight of them. A year ago in the collective thinking there was a feeling of potential panic that the government would have to shore up the financial institutions; otherwise, everything would collapse. So some golden coins - or rather some figures on paper - were transferred to appease the collective fear.

This year there is a turnaround happening, where in truth the financial institutions--which includes all of the means for manifesting your dreams, your true dreams that come from the higher Self--are going to be partnering with you to bring forth those Dreams--capital "D"--to bring forth the dreams that are based on love, on the heart. So you are going to see a bit of what your news media loves to play up: drama.

Now, your news media is most fun to watch. They are as a dog with a bone. They will take an issue and they will gnaw on that bone, and gnaw on it over and over and over for days and days, until the next bone comes along, and then they chew the new bone. They give you the most dire prophesies because the human collective loves the adrenaline rush. It makes you feel alive.

Your news media want the sponsors to pay their salaries, so therefore they put on the programs that are going to appeal to mass consciousness, and mass consciousness yet wants the adrenaline rush and wants to know that there can be problems out there, and it wants to know about them right away so that it can secure itself against any problems. That is separated ego speaking.

However, you are also going to see a growing subconscious – and then conscious --feeling of optimism. And whenever you have optimism, in this reality that believes in duality, what do you have coming along as companion? Pessimism, of course, the negative. And the brighter the optimism, the darker the dark, so it seems.

So you are going to see in this next year a lot of the light and the dark clashing. That is where you are going to have opportunity to judge holy judgment; in other words, to step back from what is happening and to say, "Everything, even this, serves the atonement, and the quicker we get on with it, the better."

And judgment will come up. It is the human habit to first have judgment; then comes discernment. And you will be moving more and more quickly into the place of discernment and hope.

You are going to see some big battles this next year. I do not mean the usual kind of warfare, although that is going to go on, but the battles of light and dark and the battles of your leaders within themselves, "Do I dare put my career on the line by voting for something that would be good for my fellow man, or should I play along with the game that has been played for so long?" The younger generations in many geo-political groupings – countries, you call them – will be rising up in new thinking, no longer satisfied with the old ways because of the influence of your technology, the internet, which allows them access to progressive information.

This next year is going to be watched, not only by you, but by other Intelligences, as well. As we have spoken to you in other times, you are all star seeds. You have come from other constellations in previous incarnations that may be of form such as this, and more often not of human form, not recognizable form. But I will call them incarnations, because they have been experiences that could be delineated as a lifetime, however long, however short.

You are all star seeds, each and every one of you. Each and every one of the brothers and sisters have all come from different planetary systems. Now, those of you who are of like mind, have a common background, a lineage I will call it, of having come from the same star seed constellations, and you find each other and you recognize each other when you come together. There is a feeling of familiarity, a feeling that you can be friends with this one, you can be open, you can trust, you can laugh. Other ones do not feel quite so familiar.

Other Intelligences are going to be and are and have been watching this melting pot, this mixture of cultures from other planetary systems which have sent ambassadors into this reality to see how they can play in the sandbox together, whether they will play nice or whether they are going to be throwing the sand around.

In this next year you are going to be more aware of other Intelligences. You have had the most wonderful preparatory experiences, evidences of life beyond human collective consciousness. You have heard of the Roswell experience of the landing of the ETs, the extra-terrestrials, ones from beyond Terra, and you have heard the information rumored about how they were and what they brought with them.

You have had--and they continue--the most wonderful crop circles that are not man-made. Man has tried to replicate them overnight or in one day and has not been successful.

There have been sightings of unusual lights in the heavens and they have been explained as many different things, and yet you have had whole groups in various parts of this country and other countries, as well, who have seen the lights in the skies that could not be explained by ordinary means. So you have had preparation.

In this next year it is most probable--not only possible, but probable--that there will be contact made that will be irrefutable, even though the scientific community and the government is going to want more proof. Now, I say probable contact because, as I have spoken to you many times, you are great masters of improv. You are great masters in timing. So it may happen--as it is seen now, it will happen--but it may happen in this year, or it may be out a little farther than this next year. But as it is seen now, contact with other Intelligences will be made.

Ones are having--if they think about it at all--to come to the realization that there has to be life and Intelligence beyond just this planet. At first it feels scary to the human ego to think that, "There might be something else besides me. What's this 'besides me' going to look like? Is it going to be friendly? Well, if it arrived here before I've gone and arrived on their planet, then it's probably going to be more powerful. And if it's more powerful, maybe I'd better gear up to defend myself," because that has been the habit of the past.

However, you have had very gradual preparation, preparing because it is going to happen. It is only a matter of the timing.

This new year is going to be exciting because of the changes that you are going to bring forth. Enjoy the changes and know that truly you do not walk the path alone. Always I am with you. I hold you in my love.

So be it.
