

THE NEXT LEVEL

2016-02-20

Beloved and holy and only Child of our heavenly Father, Child of the one Source, Child of Light, divine. That is who you are. Take it deeply within the consciousness and contemplate what that means. Child of Light, divine.

I am the one known as Jeshua ben Joseph, Jesus you have called me, and it is in great joy that I come to abide with you this evening in your timing as you have chosen to call me forth. Great joy always, for that is your true nature. Great joy, radiance, the radiance of the one energy which has come into a place of semi-darkness to bring your Light, to shine the Light, to show up the dark places, and to come once again into remembrance of who and what you are; to celebrate who and what you are, as you do with the friends when you come and you are with ones of like mind and like heart; to come alive truly in a place that is safe.

It is safe to be who you are. It is not only safe, but also you are given the task of coming alive in that Light and that love, and coming to a place of a great smile upon the face, of knowing that truly you are safe and you are loved, and it is okay to be a clown from time to time.

Now, in this evening we will be speaking about where you are and where you are going. In one of our previous sessions, we spoke about the Light. We spoke about how there is now in the world a seeming darkness and how the world seems to be getting darker, how the events and what you have in the various political groupings seems to be so heavy and so dichotomized, separated, split apart and into a warring atmosphere with each other, some being very much of the Light, wanting to move forward in the Light, and others wanting to hold the status quo and keep where it has always been, and perhaps even to take it a bit backwards into past history.

We spoke about how everything seems to be dark. There seems to be a lot of darkness, and yet we spoke that truly why it is looking dark is because there is more Light shining upon it, bringing out the dark corners and showing up the dark corners; whereas before when things were all of a neutral gray color, the Light wasn't as great as it is now, and you weren't seeing such a contrast.

So what is happening truly is all in perfect divine order, as you have decreed, to bring forth the Light that you are and to shine it into all of the dark places outside of you and within as well. Because there are places within you that are still holding fear, still holding the feeling of what if. That is why I spoke that you are safe, because truly there is a small piece still within the psyche that says there could be something that would hurt me, harm me; not only the body—yes, the body seems to be vulnerable—but also even the spirit of me; I'm not quite sure.

But I am saying to you in this evening that truly you are safe, and you are bringing forth more and more Light into this plane that has for a long, long time forgotten its origin, has forgotten the Light from whence all creation has come.

So that little piece of fear that resides deep within is coming up to be looked at, to be examined, to be felt, and to be understood that truly it is an old fear that came about gradually so that it was not noticed. It came about as there was attachment to the form, to the body, whatever form that you were choosing to be, because again, as we have spoken many times, you have played with all different kinds of forms. You have been the whales, the dolphins, the birds. You have been everything that you can imagine, because you were creating.

Then you wanted to know, "How would it feel to be the creation that I have just made?" So you spent what you would call now lifetimes being whatever you had created in order to experience all, everything that you could create. Out of that has come the feeling of separation, separate from your Source, separate from that energy that creates.

And yet you are the extension of the one Mind, the extension of the one Creator; not even as you would speak of being the Child of Father/Mother/God/Goddess/All That Is, but the extension; not separate as you think of the child being separate from the parent or the one who gives birth. You are the extension, come here to once again create and experience.

What is happening now is a most wonderful fulfillment of a decree that you made a long time ago, as you measure linear time, that said, "I want to experience everything. I want to know the Light, I want to know the darkness, I want to know the shadows, I want to know everything that I can create, and I want to call it good," as you have in your holy writings.

The gods, which is you, created everything—or as your holy biblos says, "God", but it was truly at that point into the plural, as you understood plurality—and called it good. And it is. It serves the divine purpose of the one Creator wanting to know, "What can I create?" So being given the unlimitedness of you, being the creative One, you have created everything, everything from the place where you knew that you were totally loved and safe, to the place where you knew that you were not totally loved and safe, and everything in between.

So as I said just a few minutes ago, you have kept a few remnants of the old feelings that there could be disappointment, there could be seeming failure of something, that there could be ones who would not like you, would not like what you were doing. You have a small remnant of that left over, and you out-pictured it in some of the ones that you have had the relationships with, to the place where there is a small kernel of it left, and yet even that is coming up now to be seen in holiness, to be seen that truly it is a creation, and if you have created it, you can change it.

That is your power, and that is what I want to speak of in this evening, moving to the next level of understanding your power, understanding that truly the Light now is shining on all of the dark corners, all of the dark places, and showing them up to be just that; darkness that then dissipates when the Light is shone upon it.

So you go forward. You interact with the brothers and sisters. Sometimes it feels good, sometimes it feels questionable, sometimes it feels downright like you want to get out of this space. That is okay, because what you are doing is neutralizing everything with your Light, bringing it to that place, the zero point of no fear, that zero point of healing, where truly you look upon the bodies and you see them to be perfect.

You look upon the occupations that you are doing, and you see that they are places of advantage, places where you can experience, where you can bring more Light into whatever you are doing, whoever you are interacting with, and bring the place of healing to some places that seem to be a bit discouraging, seem to be a bit questionable, and you can heal everything.

Because truly you are creating moment by moment. You are not the same person you were when you walked in the door. And when you leave here this evening, you will not be the same person who left home to come here, because you will have expanded in the Light that you are, just because you have decreed this is what you want to do. You want to know, "Who am I? Why am I? What am I doing here? What do I truly want to be doing?"

And as we spoke a couple of weeks ago, everything is in front of you as a smorgasbord to choose. Where do you want to be? What do you want to be doing? What brings you joy? Who stands in front of you and says you can't do it? In truth, no one; only that little kernel left over, that remnant that says, "Perhaps I'm not good enough, perhaps I'm not strong enough, perhaps...all of the perhaps."

And yet you look at them and you say, "Well, that was true yesterday, but maybe it's not true today." That gives you a new way of looking at all of life, and out of that comes hope. You have built into this creation, this world, this lifetime several gifts, one of them being hope, one of them being no matter how dark everything may seem or how much patience is asked for, you always find a little more patience somewhere in the corner, and you pick it up and use it for a while, and then when you need more patience, you can find it again. It is within you.

Sometimes when it seems like things are the darkest, and you don't like anyone—"I don't like anyone; no one likes me"—and you're in that place that feels very tight, unloved, unloving, stop, take a deep breath and ask, "How can I see this differently?" You can, and you will, because I will share with you in this evening that what you have brought yourself to realizing is that you are the one who is creating.

If you like joy in your life, if you like cake and ice cream in your life, who says you can't have it? Only that old little voice in the back of your head from other lifetimes or perhaps earlier in this lifetime that says, "Well, maybe you can't have it. Maybe it's not really for you. Other people can have it, but you can't." But where does that voice come from? It's an old language. It's an old thought, and it is no longer true. It never was true.

So you are now at a very exciting place, because the door is opening; not only opening, but it is full open, where you can come through it, where you can be who you truly are and be happy with yourself. You can be in joy in what you really want to do, because that is what you are putting together now. You are taking hold of your life. You are taking hold of possibilities, and you are saying, "Where do I want to be in the exercise that we worked on a few weeks ago or so to visualize myself as being twenty-five years farther on from now, and how would that person twenty-five years on speak to me as I see myself now? What would that person say to me? How would I fill in the twenty-five years? What would I do? Where would I go?"

It opens up all kinds of possibilities. Even for ones who feel that they have lived the greater portion of the life and there may not be too much left of it, it is always there. You knew, in what seems to be a long time ago, how to live the three hundred, four hundred, five hundred years, linear years like you measure them now—no, there was no magic that it was just a figment of collapsing time, but you actually did live that long, because you wanted to create some more, you wanted to know some more, and you knew it was possible, because you were the one creating.

So you kept having experiences and going from one to another to another, until finally you said, "Well, let's trade all this in and go somewhere else, perhaps another planet somewhere, perhaps another star system." Perhaps; and that perhaps is wide open.

This is what you have done. So now you look at the age span and you say, "Well, ones are living longer now." This is true, but you can live even longer, as long as you want to. As long as you're having fun with it, if it's good and you're enjoying it, why trade it in? This is what you have known, what you have done, what I did in my lifetime.

After the crucifixion and the resurrection and the ascension, did I stay ascended? In a way, yes, and in a way I came back, because there were other things I wanted to experience. I had experienced living in the area you now call Nazareth, around Jerusalem. I had experienced that. I had experienced going to Tibet and learning from the masters there, being in India and learning from masters there, but there was a whole new world, and I wanted to see it.

So I came to what you now call this geo-political grouping, this landmass. I walked it and I interacted with my brothers and sisters who were already living here. I traveled to what you know now as South America and interacted with the brothers and sisters there.

Then I did a fun thing, which you can do, you have done. I extended time, and I also collapsed time so that I could go into what you would call the future, and I played with some of the spaceships.

I also wanted to walk across the landmass from what you call the state of Alaska now over to what is known as Russia. I wanted to see it more than just from my front porch. So I put myself backwards in time, as you would understand it, to a time when that was all frozen, and I and my beloved walked across into what now is known as the political grouping of Russia.

I wanted to know. I wanted to experience. I was in love with life, so there was nothing that said I had to exit. I had already done that and resurrected the body, so I could move on from there. All power in heaven and on Earth is given unto you. Now, what does that mean? All power...wow, you really mean I can do what I really want to do, and it doesn't matter that I've already passed my seventieth birthday? I can do what I want to do yet, because I might have another two hundred and fifty years that I can travel, go places? Yes, if you want. Who is creating? You are. So if you are creating, all power is given unto you in heaven and on Earth.

Now, if you take that to heart...that is a good place to take it—to the heart; not to the mind, because the mind is going to pick it apart and say, "Well, yes, but I'm not quite sure about this," or whatever, but take it to heart, to that place of feeling, that place of power that knows that really truly you can do all of this and more.

This is what I said unto you as my disciples. All that I have done, you may do, you will do, and even more. Some have actually understood that and lived as masters for a long, long time, because they wanted to. You don't have to.

The little gnat that lives for only a short time makes a lifetime out of a short time, has as much experience in that short lifetime as another one who might go on and live for three hundred years. It depends on what you want to experience, what you want to create, and what you want to experience as that creation.

All power is given unto you. So when you feel that you're really beat down and can't get out of a situation—"I've got this to fulfill, and I've got that I have to fulfill, and then just when I think I might be getting things in order, there is the telephone or someone texts me and says there is some more paperwork that needs to be done."—you go through the steps of what the world will ask you to do, but remembering that you are the One who has the power; not the power to go against things, but the power to go with and to change. It makes a difference. If you try to go against the current, that's where the difficulty comes in. But if you learn to use the current in your favor and use the power of the current to create what you want, all power is given unto you.

So the next level that is happening we have already alluded to when we spoke about how there is more Light now on this plane than there was fifty or even ten years ago. Ones are becoming enlightened. More and more of your brothers and sisters are asking, "Why am I here? What is this all for? What is this about?"

They are coming to you from time and asking, maybe not in those words, but asking, "Well, what have you read lately that seems to be encouraging? What have you read that maybe gives a clue as to why we're here and what we're doing?" Or they may just come and say, "You look like you're actually living a fulfilling life. How do I do that?" And you share with them what you have found.

There has been as the ripples on the pond. There has been an enlightenment that is moving very quickly through the collective consciousness upon our holy Mother Earth, coming to that place where it is showing up the dark places, yes, but coming to the place where the next level is going to be knowing the Light and coming alive in that Light.

That is where you have decreed you want to be: in Light, alive, in joy, in a place that knows, "I am okay. I am made of good stuff, and it doesn't matter what others might say or how the mouth might turn down with one in their expression." That does not matter. It does not touch you. You are in charge.

So if you are looking to do something that seems really exciting, but yet how do I do it, go for it. Sit with pencil and paper and work out what the steps are—you've already done this—and see what you need to be doing. Then go for it.

"Well, it's maybe a little too soon. I think there are other things that have to come into place first." Well, so be it. But if you say, "I think I've waited long enough; I think perhaps I can go forward with some of this; maybe it'll be a little bit strange, and I may have to put a few pieces together that seem a little bit different," then go for it; go for that part.

There is nothing that says you have to stay in the same rut—nothing. In fact, everything points to the fact that whatever your heart desires—not the mind, but the heart—you can have. You just set about doing what pleases you; not in a way that is harmful to another one, but in the way that allows more Light to come into the collective consciousness, more Light into your life, more joy.

Truly there is no one, no great referee up in the heavens somewhere, saying, "Oh, well, he didn't do that right. He's got to have sixteen more lifetimes and make it right." There is no great referee. The only referee is you and the voices that you listen to in the mind that say, "Well, there's this difficulty, there's that difficulty."

As long as you allow the mind to point out all of the difficulties of things, that's what you're going to be focusing on. But if you say, "Well, you know, this is really what I'd like to do. I'm going to go and do it even if the golden coins are not there for me," at first, and then you prove yourself to be indispensable, the golden coins start to come in. You start to do what you appreciate doing, and as you do that, others may see that, and the golden coins come.

You will always—take this to heart; this is so true—you will always be taken care of. You have my word on that. You will always be taken care of; wherever you are, always; even if you seem to be in a place as some of my brethren were, in a place that is called the dungeon, the prison where they were thrown into, a very small place, and yet the spirit was free and did not stay in the dungeon, did not stay in the small cell.

The spirit was free, and you still have extant even in this day and time their writings, where they knew themselves to be more than just the body, more than what was imprisoned, and they allowed that spirit of them to soar. You have those writings even in this day and time.

So take heart. Know that truly you are moving to the next level. Know that truly the Light is being ushered in at a great pace; not a slow one anymore. What you would see as you measure the linear time of two hundred, three hundred, five hundred years ago, there was even then an awakening. But now there is what I will call a full bloom blossoming of Light where you find groupings such as this.

You find writings. You find voices. You find the messages coming from everywhere that speak of hope, that speak of Light. More and more in every geo-political grouping there are ones living in the Light and letting their Light shine. There is no place on holy Mother Earth that you can go where you will not find someone of like mind. You may have to let your Light shine a little bit to attract, but it is so true.

Anywhere you would travel on holy Mother Earth in this day, you will find ones of the Light. That didn't used to be true, because there was too much emphasis upon the body and keeping the body alive and what's needed to be for the sustenance of the body, so that the consciousness and what had to be done, seemingly, was right here very close to the face.

But now the blinders, the ones that had you looking in just a certain direction, are being taken off so that you can see much more of the Light that is out there. You are doing that for yourself. You are speaking, you are allowing other ones to know that there is hope. You are doing that every week as you gather together. You are doing that every day as you allow ones to find the oatmeal, as to wherever that may be in the marketplace. You are doing it with a certain opening of the soul, allowing the soul to flourish.

Because the soul has been kept hidden. It has been kept in the background for a long time, many lifetimes, where the body was more important. But now it is seen that the soul is in a marriage with the body, and you do not have to give over to the body the aspects of the soul; it is a marriage of it, and it is very, very hopeful.

The good news...well, the gospel, the good news was that I had arisen, that death had not won in the contest. That was the good news at that point. But the good news right now is that the Light is spreading. It is catching hold. You can go anywhere on holy Mother Earth now, and within a grouping you can find ones who say, "Yes, I have read about that," or, "Yes, I know a master who is speaking of these things."

More and more—you probably have noticed—there are more and more voices speaking of hope, of change. You have had certain times like 2012 that you recently celebrated that was a turning point, and it was truly a turning point, where more and more ones were putting the emphasis on Light, on the power of divinity; not the power of the world, but the power of divinity.

So you have had certain reckoning where you have said, "Oh, on this day there's going to be a great change," and there has been. Maybe the world didn't notice it, but you did. You have celebrations, and you will continue to have celebrations of the augmentation of Light as it grows. That is the next level.

Will there be a stopping to it? In truth, no. It has gained enough momentum that there will not be any power that is going to stop it. You have come over the midpoint. Ones have wondered, but you can go to any of your readings on your web where the writings are, and very soon you can find voices that are speaking of the changes that are happening, of the changes to expect, of the Light that is growing, more and more voices.

Take heart. You are living in a very wondrous time. That is why you agreed to be here in this time. You have been here other times when there was a "turning of the age," and that is what this is now. It is a turning back to the Light, understanding the power of the Light, and saying, "Yes, it's about time," and it is.

So be it.
